Cabinet Lineup Seen Virtually Set By Kennedy

Top Appointment To Be Announced In Fla. Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President - elect John F. Kennedy pushed into the final stages of lining up his Cabinet Wednesday, with key conferences and key appointments in the immediate offing.

The names of four men mentioned prominently for Cabinet or subcabinet posts were posted on Kennedy's schedule for Thursday.

A budget director or someone to handle liaison on the budget for the time being is to be named by Friday. And the announcement of an appointment for some top post in the new administration will be made Saturday at Palm Beach, Fla., where the president-elect will fly Friday.

This rundown came from Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, on a day that found Kennedy giving attention to such assorted problems as minimum wage and school legislation, problems of the transportation industry, unemployment, and the role of regulatory agencies in government.

Conferences Scheduled

Kennedy will confer individually Thursday with Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, and Rep. Stewart L. Udall, D-Ariz.

All four have figured in talk of Cabinet or subcabinet jobs. And, for the first time, Salinger was not saying that Kennedy hasn't talked with possible appointees about possible appointments.

Williams was listed for breakfast with the president-elect at Kennedy's three-story red brick home in Georgetown. He has been the subject of speculation in connection with the position of secretary of health, education and welfare, as well as a subcabinet post in the State Department dealing with Asian and African affairs.

Lovett is coming in for lunch. He served as undersecretary of state as well as a secretary of defense under President Harry S. Truman. His name has cropped up now in conjectures about a return to one or the other of the two departments.

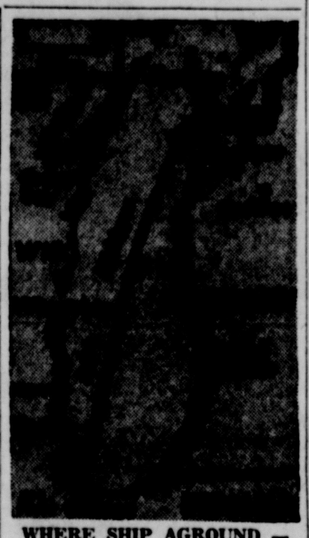

Ribicoff Top Kennedy Rooter

Ribicoff was one of the earliest and most ardent Kennedy-for-president rooters. He has figured in talk for attorney general and for the next Supreme Court vacancy, but more prominently of late in speculation about secretary of welfare.

Udall might get the call to secretary of interior. He is a westerner and the post usually goes to a Westerner.

Salinger said at a news conference that Kennedy will fly to Florida Friday and back to Washington Monday, in advance of a conference Tuesday with President Eisenhower on smoothing the changeover from the old administration to the new.

Kennedy is taking his daughter Caroline, 3, to the oceanfront home of his parents at Palm Beach, aboard his private plane which bears her name. She is going down about a week ahead of her mother and baby brother, born six days ago. The latter still are in Georgetown Hospital, with the doctors reporting they are doing fine.

FBI Recovers $100,000 More Ransom Money

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The FBI said Wednesday it has recovered, in a Los Angeles motel, $100,000 of the $200,000 paid to ransom Tony Alessio, a wealthy sportsman who was kidnaped last week.

The motel room, agents said, was once occupied by Frank Marrone, alleged ringleader of the kidnap gang, who was arrested Tuesday on a Los Angeles street.

About $83,000 in ransom money had already been recovered with the arrest of Marrone and four others.

Alessio, one of seven brothers prominent in Southern California business circles, was kidnaped in San Diego at gunpoint by two men on Nov. 22, and released unharmed after 24 hours when relatives paid the ransom.

The latest recovery, the FBI said, brings the total of money recovered to $182,515. The apartment motel in which it was found was about 31 blocks from the point at which Marrone was picked up.

The money, agents said, was hidden in an inner panel on the inside of a refrigerator door.

The largest previous recovery was $77,921, obtained with the arrest of another suspect, Robert James Gorman.

Held in addition to Marrone and Gorman are Marrone's wife Selma, 25; Gorman's wife, Ruby, 30; and Richard Lee Hoffman, 24. All have been turned over to San Diego authorities for prosecution on kidnap charges.

Resignation Accepted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday accepted the resignation of Lawrence G. Derthick as U.S. commissioner of education, effective Jan. 19.

Space Rocket Malfunctions, Is Destroyed

Concern Felt Over Possibility Pieces Fell On Cuban Soil

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A double-headed space rocket developed a malfunction and was deliberately destroyed in flight Wednesday, frustrating a U.S. bid to hurl a pair of satellites into orbit.

A reliable source reported that concern lest pieces of the rocket may have fallen on Cuban soil could have been the reason for a two-hour Defense Department delay in announcing that the vehicle had been destroyed.

The 80-foot Thor-Able-Star rocket rose smoothly from this missile test center at 2:50 p.m. Cape observers watched it for 2½ minutes before it streaked from sight. Packed in its nose were a 203-pound Transit IIIA navigation satellite and also a 40-pound sphere to measure solar radiation, which rode as a hitchhiker.

Intended Path Over Cuba

Forty minutes after launch, the defense Department reported, with no explanation, that the satellite failed to achieve orbit. It was another hour and 20 minutes before it was announced that the range safety officer had destroyed the rocket when a malfunction developed.

A source close to the project said authorities feared at first that chunks of the destroyed rocket may have tumbled onto Cuban soil. He said there is no way of knowing from here whether any did. The Thor-Able-Star's intended path was to take it over Cuba.

Project officials declined comment on this theory. They also offered no explanation as to why the announcement of what happened to the rocket was held up.

Earlier Shot Succeeded

A previous Thor - Able - Star, which hoisted Transit II-A and a radiation study satellite into orbit simultaneously, followed the same course planned for Wednesday's vehicle. That shot, last June 22, was the first time a U. S. rocket was slated to fly over Cuba.

Authoritative sources reported at the time that the launching was delayed twice during the countdown while test officials and State Department representatives conferred by phone on the reliability of the rocket.

It was believed then the State Department did not want to risk having an errant missile land in Cuba at a time when relations between that country and the United States were strained.

Frigid Weather Due This Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Below normal temperatures for much of the nation are in store for the next 30 days, the Weather Bureau forecast Wednesday.

The bureau said the 30-day outlook for December "calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over the eastern half of the nation and in the Northern Plains with greatest departures over the Lower Mississippi and Ohio Valleys. Above normal temperatures are predicted over the southern Rocky Mountain and plateau states with near normal in adjacent areas.

"Precipitaton is expected to exceed normal in Pacific Coast states as well as over the Great Lakes region and the Atlantic seaboard with early season snows in more northerly portions. Subnormal precipitation is expected over the Southern and Central Plains and Middle Mississippi Valley while near normal amounts are indicated for unspecified areas."

Women Intensify Blockade Following La. School Ruling

Court Decrees Continuation Of Integration

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Federal judges hammered down all Louisiana barriers to school integration Wednesday, then approved a 12-year stair-step plan of integration for Dallas public schools.

Bitter demonstrations by New Orleans housewives, trying to block white children from attending integrated schools, grew in scope and intensity.

Against this background of violent feelings, the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans stamped its approval on a plan that in its original form called for desegregation of the first grade in Dallas in September, 1961. It calls for the addition of another grade each year until all 12 elementary and secondary grades have been integrated.

The appeals court added: "We do not mean to approve the stair-step plan insofar as it postpones full integration."

Private School Plan Aired

In Baton Rouge, state legislators set the stage for a possible statewide private school system.

Within hours after the court ruling nailing down continuation of school integration in Louisiana the House received a bill to set up a new system of grants-in-aid to enable school children to attend private schools.

The boycott of the integrated schools tightened, leaving the four 6-year-old Negro girls virtually in segregation for the third day this week. Only two white girls attended William Frantz; none McDonogh No. 19 school.

A three-judge federal court ordered integration to proceed as decreed by U.S. District Court.

The judges leveled the barrier of interposition—a theory under which the state places its sovereignty between the federal government and the people.

39 Segregation Bills Fall

"The conclusion is clear," read the judges' unanimous 5,000-word ruling, "that interposition is not a constitutional doctrine."

When interposition fell so did 39 segregation bills passed by an angry Louisiana Legislature in special session.

Snow Closes Schools, Stalls Buffalo Traffic

By The Associated Press

Snow squalls whipping off the Great Lakes closed schools and industries in Buffalo, N. Y. and crippled traffic in other shoreline communities Wednesday as freezing cold gripped the northern part of the nation.

With a snowfall up to 18 inches, the Buffalo area struggled against drifts as high as 3½ feet. All Buffalo schools, including five colleges, were closed. The Buffalo International Airport suspended operations.

Six deaths in the Buffalo area were attributed to the storm.

Buffalo's snowfall was measured officially at 14 inches. Gale winds spewed the snow across slippery roads and at times cut visibility to zero. Main traffic routes in Buffalos' northern suburbs were choked with stalled autos and trucks. Buses, even on Buffalo streets, ran hours late.

Buffalo, at the eastern end of Lake Erie, and Watertown, N. Y. at the eastern end of Lake Ontario, braced Wednesday night for more snow. The rest of New York State was expected to get snow.

Five to 6 inches more were expected at Watertown—which had six inches on the ground.

Geauga County, east of Cleveland, had 5 to 6 inches of snow. The city's eastern suburbs got 3 to 5 inches.

Soviets Trying To Undermine U. N., U. S. Says

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States declared Wednesday that the Soviet Union is doing all it can to undermine U. N. peace efforts in the Congo. Refusal to share in the costs, it said, is in line with Soviet policy aimed at wrecking the United Nations.

A U. S. delegation spokesman made the charge as the United States disclosed additional steps to ease the financial crisis facing the United Nations because of its Congo operations.

The United States made known it has paid $20 million in advanced pledges into U. N. funds for aiding underdeveloped countries.

Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold can borrow from these funds instead of resorting to commercial banks pending receipt of U. N. assessments and other contributions expected in the next few months.

The pledges—$12 million for the expanded technical assistance and $8 million for the special development fund—were made six weeks ago. Payment would not be made normally until January. Hammarskjold appealed for such advance payments when he disclosed last week that the U. N. treasury would be virtually empty by the first of the year.

The Soviet Union told the U. N. Budgetary Committee Tuesday that Hammarskjold should submit proposals for ending the Congo operation in order to stave off U. N. bankruptcy.

"We do not believe that the withdrawal of the United Nations forces now stationed in the Congo is the answer to the organization's financial problem," said Francis W. Carter, U. S. delegation spokesman in first U. S. comment on the Soviet demand.

"This problem should be solved by the willingness of all members of the United Nations, including the Soviet Union, to share this burden in the interests of international peace."

Lumumba Eludes Congolese Troops

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese authorities said Wednesday that deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba still is at large despite strenuous efforts by police and troops to capture him.

Rumors swept Leopoldville throughout the day that the elusive Lumumba, who vanished from his residence here Sunday night, had been captured. One of the rumors said that Lumumba was seized with former Information Minister Anicet Kashamura and Health Minister Joseph Kamanga in Kenge, some 120 miles east of Leopoldville.

But officials said Wednesday night all reports of Lumumba's arrest so far had proved to be wrong.

Kennedy May Not Get Illinois Vote, Governor Says

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. William G. Stratton said Wednesday Illinois might withhold its 27 electoral votes for President-elect John F. Kennedy if Republicans can prove their charges of widespread Chicago vote frauds.

If that happens, Illinois' electoral votes would not go automatically to Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But the action would keep the big package of votes out of Kennedy's column and cut his margin in the Electoral College to 273—only four more than he needs for election.

Venezuela Acts To Oust Snipers From Refuge

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt Wednesday ordered evacuation of Caracas University, where die-hard leftist students have carried on an armed uprising against the moderate socialist government. The university had been spared police intervention as a traditional academic sanctuary.

Groups of young students seized a technical school on the university grounds at the beginning of the outbreak last Friday and from their dominant position have been sniping at loyal army troops who came within range. Observers said the students appeared to be armed with machineguns.

Apparently only the traditional Latin-American respect for universities and churches as places of refuge and asylum prevented Betancourt from acting earlier to meet the persistent student threat.

Bombs Set Off By Saboteurs Shake Havana

HAVANA (AP) — Saboteurs' bombs struck paralyzing blows in Havana Wednesday. And in central Cuba, Prime Minister Fidel Castro's personal physician was killed in a chase after rebels.

Eight bombs, touched off in early morning, damaged power and water installations and cut off electricity to the city's business district and many other areas of the capital. Two government-controlled newspapers, Combate and Avance, lost their power.

As authorities pressed an investigation of the bold series of bombings by anti-Castro elements and strove to restore power, the city was shaken by two more bombs at noon.

One destroyed a rest room and blew out the windows in the headquarters of Castro's urban reform program. The second blew up near the Tropical brewery. There were no deaths, but one of the morning bombs seriously injured a Cuban.

An official announcement said Maj. Manuel Fajardo, Castro's physician, was killed Tuesday night outside Trinidad, center of government activity against insurgents in the Escambray Mountains.

Fajardo, commanding rural militia in Escambray, was pursuing five armed Cubans who had fled Trinidad in a commandeered car.

The announcement said two of the five were captured and, in the confused firing in pursuit of a third, Fajardo was killed and three of his militiamen were wounded. This indicated Fajardo may have been shot by his own men.

Hopes Rise For Grounded Freighter With 14 Aboard

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) —Smashed by gale winds and high seas, the Liberian freighter Francisco Morazan, grounded with 14 persons aboard fought to live out a furious Lake Michigan storm Wednesday.

One of those aboard the vessel crippled off South Manitou Island in upper Lake Michigan was the captain's wife, an expectant mother.

The U. S. Coast Guard, with planes and rescue ships at the scene, held out hope that the Morazan would survive.

Bound from Chicago to Rotterdam with a general cargo, the 246-foot vessel ran aground in 14 feet of water Tuesday night when caught in the gale and a whirling snow storm.

Capt. Eduardo Trizizas' first distress call was received at the Coast Guard air station at 8:48 p.m. Tuesday.

At midafternoon Wednesday the Morazan was taking on more water in all her holds but apparently was in no great danger despite the continuing storm.

Three Coast Guard cutters stood by and two helicopters and a plane circled overhead, watching her carefully.

The Coast Guard had to decide whether to attempt to remove the crew and the captain's wife by helicopter or boats, or whether to let the Morazan try to wait out the blow. Each possible course of action presented hazards.

Waves 15 to 25 feet high smashed at the ship, driving her repeatedly against the rocks on which she grounded. An ice-cold wind hit speeds of 50 miles an hour at times. Temperatures were in the mid-20s.

Oral Polio Vaccine Won't Be Ready Next Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Leroy Burney said that contrary to earlier hopes, live polio virus vaccine—which can be taken by mouth—is not expected to be available for use in time for next summer's polio season.

At the same time, the Public Health Service chief Wednesday urged a stepped-up effort by the nation's doctors to get more people protected by the already available Salk vaccine.

Burney said Salk vaccine offers between 90 and 95 per cent protection, and "large numbers of the U. S. population have not taken advantage of vaccine."

The Salk vaccine, made of dead virus, must be given by injection. The live vaccine, made of living but toned-down virus, can be taken in the form of pills or as a syrup.

Addressing the annual clinical meeting of the American Medical Association, Burney said that based on the latest information from prospective manufacturers of the newer vaccine, "it is our judgment at the present time that we cannot expect to have an oral vaccine for use by this summer."

He said later at a news conference that several months ago his agency had 'hopes rather than anticipations" that the vaccine would be available for use this summer.

"At present," Burney added, "unless something unusual intervenes, we question whether it can be made available before this coming fall at the earliest."

And even if it does become available next fall, he said it would not play any role in the 1961 polio season — although people receiving it from then on might have protection for the 1962 season.

Peron Bands Beaten Back; Four Killed

Well-Armed Rebels Strike At Industrial City, In Oil Fields

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Armed Peronists struck at the big industrial city of Rosario and in the oil fields of northern Argentina Wednesday but were crushed, the government announced.

Political unrest and violence such as has plagued Central America and Venezuela came to this tinderbox nation, which has been relatively quiet in recent weeks. Authorities, however, saw no direct connection between the uprising here and those in sister Latin-American republics.

An army communique said four persons were killed in a sharp predawn attack on the guardhouse of an infantry regiment at Rosario. Witnesses said at least 10 were killed and 50 wounded.

The attack was led by Miguel Angel Iniguez, an ousted general from the days of dictator Juan D. Peron. He fled in the darkness, leaving one of his lieutenants dead. The other three slain were members of the Rosario regiment.

33 Rebels Captured

The army said the attack was staged by 40 well-armed men and that 33 were captured. Other reports said there were 150 in the attacking band.

A small band tried to storm the San Lorenzo army arsenal near Rosario but was repulsed, official sources said.

While the uprising at Rosario was in progress, terrorist bombs damaged railway and communications systems around Buenos Aires.

Other Peronist bands in the far northern reaches of Salta Province moved in on the oil towns of Tartagal and Vespucio.

They cut railway and telephone lines leading south to Salta, the provincial capital in an apparent attempt to strike a blow at President Arturo Frondizi's economic program. This calls in part for development of Argentina's small oil industry to cut down on oil imports and help preserve dwindling foreign currency reserves.

Peronists Seize Airport

Reports from Salta said armed civilians backing Peron took over the state oil monopoly offices at Vespucio along with oil installations.

At Tartagal, 20 miles north of Vespucio and 35 miles from the Bolivian border, the rebels seized the airport and one police station, Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo said.

He said that loyal army units easily repulsed the rebels at Tartagal.

A retired Peronist colonel named Escude was said to have led the attack there.

After conferring with Frondizi, Vitolo told reporters the president had talked with all the provincial governors and that conditions were again normal everywhere. This would include Vespucio. There were no estimates of casualties in the two towns.

U. S. Protests Cuba Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Wednesday vigorously protested as wanton and unprovoked the shooting of a U.S. Embassy staff employe by a Cuban army officer in a Havana night club Nov. 19.

The State Department announced that Daniel M. Braddock, U.S. charge da'ffaires in Havana, had formally protested the shooting of Ernest Wayne Henderson of Pasadena, Calif., who was wounded seriously. A note delivered to the Cuban Ministry of Foreign Affairs by Braddock also called for punishment of Capt. Jorge Robreno-Mariegos for what was described as a brutal and unwarranted attack.

Henderson, recovering from abdominal wounds received in the affray, is now at the police hospital where he is being technically held in detention as a material witness in the incident.

The U.S. note also protested the action of a Cuban police officer, Alberto Blanco, for failure to protect Henderson after taking him into custody and for failure to arrest Robreno.

Blanco was also called derelict in his duty "in not personally seeing that the wounded Henderson was safely delivered to a place where he could receive emergency medical treatment."

Snow squalls whipping off the Great Lakes closed schools and industries in Buffalo, N. Y. and crippled traffic in other shoreline communities Wednesday as freezing cold gripped the northern part of the nation.

With a snowfall up to 18 inches, the Buffalo area struggled against drifts as high as 3½ feet. All Buffalo schools, including five colleges, were closed. The Buffalo International Airport suspended operations.

Six deaths in the Buffalo area were attributed to the storm.

Buffalo's snowfall was measured officially at 14 inches. Gale winds spewed the snow across slippery roads and at times cut visibility to zero. Main traffic routes in Buffalos' northern suburbs were choked with stalled autos and trucks. Buses, even on Buffalo streets, ran hours late.

Buffalo, at the eastern end of Lake Erie, and Watertown, N. Y. at the eastern end of Lake Ontario, braced Wednesday night for more snow. The rest of New York State was expected to get snow.

Five to 6 inches more were expected at Watertown—which had six inches on the ground.

Geauga County, east of Cleveland, had 5 to 6 inches of snow. The city's eastern suburbs got 3 to 5 inches.

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore County Council announced Wednesday an 8-cent reduction in the county property tax.

The slash knocked the rate down to $2.46 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Soviets Trying To Undermine U. N., U. S. Says

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States declared Wednesday that the Soviet Union is doing all it can to undermine U. N. peace efforts in the Congo. Refusal to share in the costs, it said, is in line with Soviet policy aimed at wrecking the United Nations.

A U. S. delegation spokesman made the charge as the United States disclosed additional steps to ease the financial crisis facing the United Nations because of its Congo operations.

The United States made known it has paid $20 million in advanced pledges into U. N. funds for aiding underdeveloped countries.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold can borrow from these funds instead of resorting to commercial banks pending receipt of U. N. assessments and other contributions expected in the next few months.

The pledges—$12 million for the expanded technical assistance and $8 million for the special development fund—were made six weeks ago. Payment would not be made normally until January. Hammarskjold appealed for such advance payments when he disclosed last week that the U. N. treasury would be virtually empty by the first of the year.

The Soviet Union told the U. N. Budgetary Committee Tuesday that Hammarskjold should submit proposals for ending the Congo operation in order to stave off U. N. bankruptcy.

"We do not believe that the withdrawal of the United Nations forces now stationed in the Congo is the answer to the organization's financial problem," said Francis W. Carpenter, U. S. delegation spokesman in first U. S. comment on the Soviet demand.

"This problem should be solved by the willingness of all members of the United Nations, including the Soviet Union, to share this burden in the interests of international peace."

Lumumba Eludes Congolese Troops

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese authorities said Wednesday that deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba still is at large despite strenuous efforts by police and troops to capture him.

Rumors swept Leopoldville throughout the day that the elusive Lumumba, who vanished from his residence here Sunday night, had been captured. One of the rumors said that Lumumba was seized with former Information Minister Anicet Kashamura and Health Minister Joseph Kamanga in Kenge, some 120 miles east of Leopoldville.

But officials said Wednesday night all reports of Lumumba's arrest so far had proved to be wrong.

Kennedy May Not Get Illinois Vote, Governor Says

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. William G. Stratton said Wednesday Illinois might withhold its 27 electoral votes for President-elect John F. Kennedy if Republicans can prove their charges of widespread Chicago vote frauds.

If that happens, Illinois' electoral votes would not go automatically to Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But the action would keep the big package of votes out of Kennedy's column and cut his margin in the Electoral College to 273—only four more than he needs for election.

Venezuela Acts To Oust Snipers From Refuge

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt Wednesday ordered evacuation of Caracas University, where diehard leftist students have carried on an armed uprising against the moderate socialist government. The university had been spared police intervention as a traditional academic sanctuary.

Groups of young students seized a technical school on the university grounds at the beginning of the outbreak last Friday and from their dominant position have been sniping at loyal army troops who came within range. Observers said the students appeared to be armed with machineguns.

Apparently only the traditional Latin-American respect for universities and churches as places of refuge and asylum prevented Betancourt from acting earlier to meet the persistent student threat.

Bombs Set Off By Saboteurs Shake Havana

HAVANA (AP) — Saboteurs' bombs struck paralyzing blows in Havana Wednesday. And in central Cuba, Prime Minister Fidel Castro's personal physician was killed in a chase after rebels.

Eight bombs, touched off in early morning, damaged power and water installations and cut off electricity to the city's business district and many other areas of the capital. Two government-controlled newspapers, Combate and Avance, lost their power.

As authorities pressed an investigation of the bold series of bombings by anti-Castro elements and strove to restore power, the city was shaken by two more bombs at noon.

One destroyed a rest room and blew out the windows in the headquarters of Castro's urban reform program. The second blew up near the Tropical brewery. There were no deaths, but one of the morning bombs seriously injured a Cuban.

An official announcement said Maj. Manuel Fajardo, Castro's physician, was killed Tuesday night outside Trinidad, center of government activity against insurgents in the Escambray Mountains.

Fajardo, commanding rural militia in Escambray, was pursuing five armed Cubans who had fled Trinidad in a commandeered car.

The announcement said two of the five were captured and, in the confused firing in pursuit of a third, Fajardo was killed and three of his militiamen were wounded. This indicated Fajardo may have been shot by his own men.

Hopes Rise For Grounded Freighter With 14 Aboard

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) —Smashed by gale winds and high seas, the Liberian freighter Francisco Morazan, grounded with 14 persons aboard fought to live out a furious Lake Michigan storm Wednesday.

One of those aboard the vessel crippled off South Manitou Island in upper Lake Michigan was the captain's wife, an expectant mother.

The U. S. Coast Guard, with planes and rescue ships at the scene, held out hope that the Morazan would survive.

Bound from Chicago to Rotterdam with a general cargo, the 246-foot vessel ran aground in 14 feet of water Tuesday night when caught in the gale and a whirling snow storm.

Capt. Eduardo Trizizas' first distress call was received at the Coast Guard air station at 8:48 p.m. Tuesday.

At midafternoon Wednesday the Morazan was taking on more water in all her holds but apparently was in no great danger despite the continuing storm.

The Coast Guard had to decide whether to attempt to remove the crew and the captain's wife by helicopter or boats, or whether to let the Morazan try to wait out the blow. Each possible course of action presented hazards.

Waves 15 to 25 feet high smashed at the ship, driving her repeatedly against the rocks on which she grounded. An ice-cold wind hit speeds of 50 miles an hour at times. Temperatures were in the mid-20s.

Peron Bands Beaten Back; Four Killed

Well-Armed Rebels Strike At Industrial City, In Oil Fields

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Armed Peronists struck at the big industrial city of Rosario and in the oil fields of northern Argentina Wednesday but were crushed, the government announced.

Political unrest and violence such as has plagued Central America and Venezuela came to this tinderbox nation, which has been relatively quiet in recent weeks. Authorities, however, saw no direct connection between the uprising here and those in sister Latin-American republics.

An army communique said four persons were killed in a sharp predawn attack on the guardhouse of an infantry regiment at Rosario. Witnesses said at least 10 were killed and 50 wounded.

The attack was led by Miguel Angel Iniguez, an ousted general from the days of dictator Juan D. Peron. He fled in the darkness, leaving one of his lieutenants dead. The other three slain were members of the Rosario regiment.

33 Rebels Captured

The army said the attack was staged by 40 well-armed men and that 33 were captured. Other reports said there were 150 in the attacking band.

A small band tried to storm the San Lorenzo army arsenal near Rosario but was repulsed, official sources said.

While the uprising at Rosario was in progress, terrorist bombs damaged railway and communications systems around Buenos Aires.

Other Peronist bands in the far northern reaches of Salta Province moved in on the oil towns of Tartagal and Vespucio.

They cut railway and telephone lines leading south to Salta, the provincial capital in an apparent attempt to strike a blow at President Arturo Frondizi's economic program. This calls in part for development of Argentina's small oil industry to cut down on oil imports and help preserve dwindling foreign currency reserves.

Peronists Seize Airport

Reports from Salta said armed civilians backing Peron took over the state oil monopoly offices at Vespucio along with oil installations.

At Tartagal, 20 miles north of Vespucio and 35 miles from the Bolivian border, the rebels seized the airport and one police station, Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo said.

He said that loyal army units easily repulsed the rebels at Tartagal.

A retired Peronist colonel named Escude was said to have led the attack there.

After conferring with Frondizi, Vitolo told reporters the president had talked with all the provincial governors and that conditions were again normal everywhere. This would include Vespucio. There were no estimates of casualties in the two towns.

U. S. Protests Cuba Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Wednesday vigorously protested as wanton and unprovoked the shooting of a U.S. Embassy staff employe by a Cuban army officer in a Havana night club Nov. 19.

The State Department announced that Daniel M. Braddock, U.S. charge da'ffaires in Havana, had formally protested the shooting of Ernest Wayne Henderson of Pasadena, Calif., who was wounded seriously. A note delivered to the Cuban Ministry of Foreign Affairs by Braddock also called for punishment of Capt. Jorge Robreno-Mariegos for what was described as a brutal and unwarranted attack.

Henderson, recovering from abdominal wounds received in the affray, is now at the police hospital where he is being technically held in detention as a material witness in the incident.

The U.S. note also protested the action of a Cuban police officer, Alberto Blanco, for failure to protect Henderson after taking him into custody and for failure to arrest Robreno.

Blanco was also called derelict in his duty "in not personally seeing that the wounded Henderson was safely delivered to a place where he could receive emergency medical treatment."

Oral Polio Vaccine Won't Be Ready Next Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Leroy Burney said that contrary to earlier hopes, live polio virus vaccine—which can be taken by mouth—is not expected to be available for use in time for next summer's polio season.

At the same time, the Public Health Service chief Wednesday urged a stepped-up effort by the nation's doctors to get more people protected by the already available Salk vaccine.

Burney said Salk vaccine offers between 90 and 95 per cent protection, and "large numbers of the U. S. population have not taken advantage of vaccine."

The Salk vaccine, made of dead virus, must be given by injection. The live vaccine, made of living but toned-down virus, can be taken in the form of pills or as a syrup.

Addressing the annual clinical meeting of the American Medical Association, Burney said that based on the latest information from prospective manufacturers of the newer vaccine, "it is our judgment at the present time that we cannot expect to have an oral vaccine for use by this summer."

He said later at a news conference that several months ago his agency had "hopes rather than anticipations" that the vaccine would be available for use this summer.

"At present," Burney added, "unless something unusual intervenes, we question whether it can be made available before this coming fall at the earliest."

And even if it does become available next fall, he said it would not play any role in the 1961 polio season — although people receiving it from then on might have protection for the 1962 season.

Liz, Eddie Sue Film Magazines For $7.2 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Film star Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, singer Eddie Fisher, filed a $7.25 million libel action Wednesday against eight film magazines, charging they were damaged through "lurid" front cover headlines.

The action, filed in State Supreme Court, accused the magazines of acting maliciously and irresponsibly for the "crass commercial purpose' of stimulating circulation.

The stories themselves "in no way substantiated those headlines and often belied them," the suits charged.

Defendants named were Official Magazines Corp., publisher of Screen stars; Interstate Publishing Corp., publishers of Movie World; Fawcett Publications, publisher of Motion Picture; Dell Publishing Co., publisher of Modern Screen; countrywide Publications, publisher of Movie TV Secrets; Sterling Group, Inc., publishers of Movie Mirror, and Ideal Publishing Corp., publisher of Movie Stars - TV Closeups and Movie Life.

They included: "Eddie named father of Liz' child (Liza Todd)," —Modern Screen, Oct., 1960.

"Will Liz' children be taken away from her?"—Screen Stars, Oct. 1960.

"Is Liz breaking her marriage vows?"—Movie World, Nov. 1960.

"Liz - Eddie - Debbie: Are they planning to live together?"—Movie Mirror, Nov. 1960.

"We dare to print the facts. Trouble between Liz and Eddie"—Motion Picture, Feb. 1960.

"Stephen Boyd has split up Eddie and Liz!"—Movie TV Secrets, Dec. 1960.

Miss Taylor said some of the headlines depicted her as "an experienced and shameless courtesan who engages in acts of lovemaking and displays passion in public without restraint or modesty."

Sir Winston, 86, Quietly Celebrates His Birthday

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, recovering from a broken bone in his back, celebrated his 86th birthday quietly with his family and thousands of absent friends Wednesday.

Churchill got up for lunch, puffed a cigar and then sent out a special message of thanks to well-wishers the world over.

Greetings and presents from many lands flooded the aged statesman. President Eisenhower sent greetings and a "get well" message—as did the bricklayer's union.

Queen Elizabeth II was among the well-wishers, and so was the local junk man, Chris Shephard. There were greetings from Prime Minister Macmillan and the boy down the block.

Delivery trucks rolled up with flowers by the basket, the box and the bouquet. And neighborhood children dropped by the house to hand in their tiny posies.

Overwhelmed by the flow of affection, Churchill penned his thanks.

"I am very grateful to all those who have so kindly sent me messages of good wishes for my health and for my 86th birthday," he wrote.

"There are so many that I regret I cannot acknowledge them all personally but I should like to express my warm thanks to the senders for their thought of me which has given me great pleasure."

All Sir Winston's children—grown up now, many of his grandchildren and a number of his friends called to see him.

They reported him in a genial mood and making a rapid recovery from the fall 15 days ago in which he broke a small bone in his back.

Bonn Will Seek New Trade Pact With E. Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) —The West German cabinet decided Wednesday to resume negotiations with Communist East Germany to determine whether a new trade agreement can be reached.

Government press chief Felix von Eckardt said Kurt Leopold, West Germany's chief representative in past trade talks, will be given directives to proceed.

The Bonn government canceled the present trade pact as of Dec. 31 in retaliation for travel restrictions imposed by the East German regime on West Germans visiting East Berlin.

The West Germans said in canceling the pact that they would resume negotiations when the Communists abolished the restrictions. But recently, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he was in favor of an elastic policy on the trade question.

The press chief noted that the "sector restrictions exist in law, but in practice they were handled generously."

He refused to elaborate. But his words indicated the Bonn government does not consider the restrictions important enough to continue a trade ban.

Von Eckardt said the negotiations would be unofficial. West Germany does not recognize the Communist regime.

Leopold has said he will begin talks with the East Germans Friday, but Von Eckardt would not confirm this.

Baltimore Edges Houston To Keep Its No. 6 Ranking

WASHINGTON (AP)—Final 1960 census figures show that Baltimore has kept its ranking as the nation's sixth largest city, edging Houston by 805 people.

The final count gives Baltimore a population of 939,024. Houston's total is 938,219.

On the basis of preliminary figures, Houston had taken over the No. 6 spot in the rankings. Houston initially was credited with a population of 932,630 compared with Baltimore's 922,244.

Final figures for all top ranked cities are not yet available.

However, the top five cities in the nation, in order of population, are New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Detroit.

PRR Keeps Dividend Record Unbroken

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad Wednesday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share keeping unbroken its dividend payment record, which now stands at 113 years.

The PRR also announced that effective Jan. 1, salary slashes of five to 30 per cent imposed on officers, supervisors and certain other employes last Sept. 16, would be restored.

The cuts were imposed, the PRR said, to help meet money problems resulting largely from the 12-day strike of shopcraft employes in September.

President Allen J. Greenough said the business outlook for 1961 still is uncertain, but "conditions have shown enough improvement to warrant restoration of full salaries."

Five Negroes Served Lunch At Atlanta 'Y'

ATLANTA (AP)—Five Negroes ate lunch at the downtown YWCA cafeteria Wednesday without incident.

They dined with scores of white persons. A few white persons entering the cafeteria left quietly on seeing the Negroes.

It was the first desegregated dining facility in the city since Negro college students began lunch counter sit-ins. The sit-in demonstrations were resumed five days ago after a 30-day truce.

The Negro diners at the Y included the Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of integration leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Two young white women accompanied them through the serving line and sat with them at a large table.

Twenty minutes later another Negro man arrived, was served and sat alone at another table.

A spokesman for the YWCA said its board of directors had not adopted a policy of desegregation but had decided that if Negroes came in they would be served.

The YWCA cafeteria draws customers from office buildings in the area. Integrated board meetings and committee meetings have been held there in private dining rooms for some time.

The latest sit-ins have closed lunch counters and dining facilities at all but one of 15 downtown department, variety and drug stores.

Man Gets 10 Years In Slaying Of Wife

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—An all-male jury Wednesday convicted a 51-year-old Westminster man of manslaughter in the death of his wife Oct. 22.

The Carroll County Circuit Court jury deliberated 44 minutes before returning the verdict against Martin Luther Woodyard. Its verdict held Woodyard innocent of premeditated murder in the death of Olean Vivian Woodyard, 43.

The Negro defendant testified his wife was shot by a .22 caliber pistol as the couple struggled during an argument over bills. Woodyard said he did not know who pulled the trigger.

Chief Judge James E. Boylan Jr. imposed a 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary after the verdict was returned.

Pair Accused Of Receiving Stolen Airplane Parts

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) —A preliminary hearing has been scheduled Dec. 5 for two men charged by federal agents with receiving up to $100,000 worth of airplane parts stolen from the Air Force.

The charges were filed Wednesday against Dennis Ronley Conner, 37, and his brother-in-law, Donald R. Owens, 32, both of La Plata.

They were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Samuel W.H.Meloy and released under $10,000 bond pending the preliminary hearing.

FBI agent Robert J. Lally said the airplane parts involved in the case were stolen last weekend from the Aero Club at Rose Valley Airport near Friendly, Md. The club is operated by the Air Force to encourage military and civilian interest in flying.

Lally said most of the stolen property, which included strut assemblies, hydraulic pumps, engine supports and miscallaneous parts, was recovered at Owens' home.

Conners and Owens, described by the FBI as gambling casino operators, were arrested Tuesday night. Conners was listed as operator of Aqua Land and Trail Casino at Newburg, Md., and Little Reno, at Colonial Beach, Va.

Pair Accused Of Receiving Stolen Airplane Parts

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) —A preliminary hearing has been scheduled Dec. 5 for two men charged by federal agents with receiving up to $100,000 worth of airplane parts stolen from the Air Force.

The charges were filed Wednesday against Dennis Ronley Conner, 37, and his brother-in-law, Donald R. Owens, 32, both of La Plata.

They were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Samuel W.H.Meloy and released under $10,000 bond pending the preliminary hearing.

FBI agent Robert J. Lally said the airplane parts involved in the case were stolen last weekend from the Aero Club at Rose Valley Airport near Friendly, Md. The club is operated by the Air Force to encourage military and civilian interest in flying.

Lally said most of the stolen property, which included strut assemblies, hydraulic pumps, engine supports and miscallaneous parts, was recovered at Owens' home.

Conners and Owens, described by the FBI as gambling casino operators, were arrested Tuesday night. Conners was listed as operator of Aqua Land and Trail Casino at Newburg, Md., and Little Reno, at Colonial Beach, Va.

Tawes Withholds River Compact Proclamation

Other Results To Be Declared Official

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes decided Wednesday to proclaim as official all the results of Maryland's Nov. 8 election except the Potomac River Compact with Virginia. He temporarily is withholding a proclamation on that because it is involved in a court suit.

The governor received from the State Board of Canvassers certification of the election of nine Democratic electors to cast Maryland's votes for Sen. John F. Kennedy for President, the election of seven congressmen, eleven lower court judges and approval by Maryland voters of 15 constitutional amendments and the Potomac compact.

The canvassers — the attorney general, comptroller treasurer, secretary of state and chief clerk of the Court of Appeals—certified the ratification of the compact along with other results despite the pending court test.

The 1958 treaty with Virginia, which provides for a bi-state agency to administer the Potomac's fishery, received 244,510 votes in favor of ratification and 204,837 against.

It was petitioned onto the ballot by Southern Maryland watermen opposed to the compact.

Hyman Pressman, Baltimore attorney for the watermen, filed suit in Baltimore Tuesday seeking to have the compact declared null and void on grounds it was unconstitutional and not advertised properly 30 days in advance of the election. The suit asked a permanent injunction restraining Gov. Tawes from proclaiming it ratified.

Tawes was served with a subpoena Wednesday, an hour before the canvassers met, giving him 10 days to show cause why Pressman's requests should not be granted.

He turned the subpoena over to Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, who will prepare an answer. Sybert advised the governor to withhold his proclamation on the compact until he can examine the suit. He will advise later whether to go ahead with the proclamation.

The governor has no set time for proclaiming election results, although there are some legal interpretations that this is to be done within 30 days after the Board of Canvassers meets.

The attorney general said he probably will drop plans to initiate a "friendly suit" by the State testing compact. The same objective can now be achieved in Pressman's unfriendly suit filed in Baltimore.

"This matter is highly important to the states of Maryland and Virginia, and we're interested in clearing it up before any congressional action is taken (on further ratification of the compact)," the attorney general said. "The time to get a determination is now."

There was no question about the other results certified.

The electors for Kennedy and his vice presidential running-mate Lyndon B. Johnson polled 565,808 votes to 489,538 for those representing Vice President Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

U. Md. To Give Testing Course

BALTIMORE (AP) — The University of Maryland regents approved Wednesday a special "weeding out" course for residents of the state of doubtful college academic ability.

Maryland high school graduates seeking admission to the university with poor grades will have to take a six-week summer course. They will be classified "on trial."

The testing course will not apply to applicants from out of state. Maryland may reject their applications without reason.

But graduates of Maryland high schools must be given every opportunity to attend the state university. In the past, those with poor grades have been subjected to a test and then admitted on trial if they pass it.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president, said that of 361 admitted on trial in 1958, 65 per cent were dismissed or withdrew after two semesters. After four semesters, the attrition amounted to 83 per cent.

Dr. Elkins said the new plan of summer courses is designed to avoid the high attrition.

He said there should be advantages even for those who do not make the grade.

They will save time and money and know in time enough "to pursue reasonable alternatives in his education or training."

The trial students will be required to take two courses. English will be required. The other will be selected with advice of counselors.

With no engineering experience, Ferdinand de Lesseps planned, promoted and built the Suez canal. He talked Turkey's viceroy of Egypt into giving him the right of way in 1854, but four years passed before he raised the capital. Successful in building the Suez canal, he failed when he tackled the mountain-blocked, fever-ridden Isthmus of Panama.

Official Seeks Reimbursement

BALTIMORE (AP)—The director of aviation for Baltimore asked the city Wednesday to pay the legal fees he incurred in successfully defending himself against a $100,000 libel suit filed by his former top assistant.

Director John O. Colonna asked the Board of Estimates for permission to pay the $4,500 fee from Department of Aviation surplus funds. He contended he was sued in his capacity as a municipal official and not as a private citizen.

Colonna's request was accompanied by a letter of endorsement by Charles P. Crane, chairman of the airport board.

Colonna fired his assistant, William C. D. Bridges, in August, 1959. Bridges was reinstated after he appealed to the City Service Commission. Then he filed the libel suit, saying Colonna had acted maliciously.

Before the suit came to trial, Bridges was ousted from his airport post by the Board of Estimates, which abolished his job from this year's budget.

Maryland News In Brief

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—Howard County commissioners have adopted a record $3,357,978 budget without increasing the basic tax rate.

The 1961 budget calls for an increase of $398,809, with $274,028 of the boost going for schools.

The tax rate of $1.85 per $100 of assessable property will remain the same.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission has begun free distribution of 25,000 maps showing highways leading to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

The maps are prepared by the Keystone Automobile Club. They are being given out at tunnel entrances and at toll booths of the Susquehanna and Chesapeake Bay bridges.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The city called Wednesday for bids on a seven-mile segment of the pipeline which eventually will carry water from the Susquehanna River to homes in the Baltimore area.

The segment, from just north of Aberdeen to the Conowingo Dam, is the fourth phase of the $35 million project which is expected to be completed in 1962.

The pipeline will handle 250 million gallons a day and is expected to handle the needs of the metropolitan area until the year 2000.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Astronomical instruments from the 15th to the 18th centuries are on display at St. John's College here.

The unique collection, on permanent loan to the college from the Adler Planetarium and Astronomical Museum of Chicago, consists of some 38 pieces.

It includes sun dials, celestial spheres, sextants, old telescopes, and ancient maps of the earth and sky. The instruments are made of gold, silver, marble, brass, bronze and even wood. The items come from China, Turkey, France, Italy, Germany and England.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Naval Academy will present its 14th production of Handel's "Messian" on Dec. 17 and 18 in the Academy Chapel.

Miss Joanne Neal, soprano, and Edmond Karlsrud, bass, two award-winning singers on the current concert stage, will take part in the presentation.

The male choral parts will be sung by the Midshipmen's Chapel Choir and the women's voices will be provided by the Hood College Choir of Frederick, Md.

MONKTON, Md. (AP)—William J. Peeples of Rockville, William A. Kegan of Easton and Leonard Scherlis of Baltimore have been named vice presidents of the Heart Association of Maryland. The appointments were announced by Raeburn H. Parker, new president of the association.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Reformatory for Women will be the site of the next hearing by a legislative committee investigating prison administration in the state.

Sen. Edward O. Weant, D-Carroll, chairman of the group, said the committee would meet Dec. 8 at the women's institution at Jessup.

The committe held earlier hearings at the Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown and the Maryland Penitentiary at Baltimore, and Tuesday met at the House of Correction at Jessup.

Weant said the committee would sponsor legislation in the 1961 General Assembly to provide penalties for persons sending contraband to inmates of state institutions.

High-Flying U2 Gives Science "New Look At Sun"

BALTIMORE (AP)—The U2 airplane, which burst into the limelight last year when one was forced down in Russia, "has given us a new look at the sun," a Johns Hopkins University physicist disclosed Tuesday.

Dr. John Strong reported that the high flying plane has been carrying aloft university instruments to study solar radiation.

His announcement, at a weekly seminar of 15 students, came exactly one year after a radiation measurement from a balloon provided the first indication that the atmosphere of Venus contains water vapor.

Strong says he plans to extend similar observations to Mars.

The spectrometer sent up in the U2 plane was an effort to measure solar radiation above the earth's atmosphere, Dr. Strong said.

To do so, it is necessary to measure the water vapor at various altitudes because it is a great absorber of the radiation.

Strong said the data from the U2 indicated that water vapor in outer space measures only one-tenth of one per cent of the atmosphere and that the solar radiation there is more than 5,000 degrees.

The data was obtained in eight flights, said Robert Rados of the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories in Massachusetts. He said the plane took off from Edwards Air Force Base in California and the observations were made in September over Alaska.

He said the Johns Hopkins observations are the first specific report on weather flights by the U2.

Strong emphasized that "so far they are experimental" and more work is needed on measurement of absorption of solar radiation.

Aside from the scientific curiosity, he said it will be of practical use to weather experts and engineers designing satellite vehicles.

The U2 flights themselves are a step forward in a similar program carried out by Johns Hopkins in 1948. At that time, the measuring equipment was carried in B29 airplanes at altitudes up to only 33,000 feet.

Both programs were carried out under sponsorship of the Office of Naval Research.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Backward Look

Observe the women you pass on the street: take a good look at the back of their heads. How many do you see who look attractive enough to make you want to take a couple of extra steps to get a glimpse of their faces? Few enough, I'll wager, to make you decide it's worthwhile to study the back of your own head and give it the attention that's apt to be long overdue.

Should such inspection reveal that the back of your hairdo is unflattering to your head, neck, and figure, or that dry, tattered ends betray your otherwise careful grooming, don't be dismayed. It's something you can overcome quickly.

All you need is a rear-view mirror. The least inexpensive and handiest types are those that are held around your neck by a comfortable plastic band and can be adjusted to any height. With this kind of a reflector you can get a clear image of the back of your head, whether your large dressing mirror is placed high or low.

You'll discover that lacquer, pomade, grip combs and invisible nets are of even greater use in perfecting the back of your coiffure than they are in front.

But your hair styling errors may not be so easily corrected. They require some study. If you follow the fashion for the close-cropped, curled crown, there is no law that says your hair must be curleycued in the back if that style foreshortens your body. Instead try a smooth, contoured swirl behind and see how it elongates your neck and figure.

Conversely, if you're the slim one with a slender column of a neck, a backview of your beauty might be soft waves down the entire length of the head with the ends turning to one side in an enormous pin curl that lies flat just behind the ear.

W.Va. Coalman Expects Little From Kennedy

RICHMOND, W. Va. (UPI) — Walter R. Thurmond, retired secretary of the West Virginia Coal Association, believes the coal industry will get little, if any, help from President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Thurmond noted that Kennedy, while a member of the Massachusetts congressional delegation, the record showed that he "voted continually against limited foreign imports, and for public power."

"It is pretty evident that the coal industry will get no relief from him this next four years and whatever favorable legislation, if any, will be through the overriding influence of the Congress, a very doubtful possibility," Thurmond said.

The veteran coal executive also described as "wholly unrealistic" the present wage scale for miners. Thurmond said the current $34 rate for 6½-hours of production, including fringe benefits, was too high.

He said it was rate of pay that caused the federal government to bring pressures on contract negotiations in recent years.

DIFFERENT VIEWS ON INTEGRATION—A Roman Catholic priest stands over a group of hecklers outside an elementary school in New Orleans to debate the merits of integration. The clergyman had accompanied a Methodist minister and his daughter to the integrated school, which was boycotted by all but two white students, one being the minister's child. The priest was shoved and jeered after he stopped to talk to the hecklers.

West Virginia GOP Solons Will Caucus

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Republican State Chairman Daniel L. Louchery announced Wednesday GOP members of the 55th Legislature will meet here Dec. 10 to name their selections for Senate president and House of Delegates speaker.

Democrats, who hold an 82-18 majority in the House and a 25-7 majority in the Senate, also will meet on the same day to make their choices.

The majority party will be meeting to name successors to Senate President Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, and House Speaker Harry R. Pauley, Iaeger.

Medical Care Allowances Are Adopted

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Hospitals treating patients under West Virginia's new medical care program for the aged will be allowed up to $20 per day, State Department of Public Assistance Director Thomas R. Egbert said Wednesday.

Egbert said that starting Thursday the old rate of 90 per cent of cost, up to a maximum of $20 a day, will be paid hospitals only for those persons getting treatment under the old medical care program for the some 20,000 indigent in the state.

The West Virginia Hospital Association had adopted a resolution saying, in effect, that the hospitals would not be able to absorb the cost of treating an additional 100,000 persons under the new medicare program. It said that unless the DPA reimbursed at full cost, the hospitals would be forced to charge the patients for the difference.

The association said that under the 90 per cent-of-cost rate, the DPA paid about $1.5 million for hospital treatment given the indigent in 1959. The association said this meant that the hospitals absorbed about $250,000 in costs.

Egbert said that as a result of his decision, the new six month program approved during the special session of the Legislature last month would cost about $500,000 through March 31, 1961, when the current program expires.

The director said that if the department runs short of money for the program it might be necessary to reduce the number of hospital days allowed eligible patients from the current 30 - day maximum.

Southeastern W.Va. Economic Scene Brighter

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Department of Employment Security Wednesday predicted the economic outlook for six southeastern West Virginia counties would show an improvement in the next five years.

The department released its third study of manpower resources of the state. The newest one dealing with Fayette, Greenbrier, Mercer, Monroe, Pocahontas and Summers counties.

The survey said that about 9,450 persons were unemployed in the area as of mid - June, but at th same time predicted that "a reversal of the declining employment trends of the past decade" would occur in the next few years.

Coal mine employment, the survey said, could be used to point out the jobless problems of the area. Such employment dropped from 15,281 in 1950 to 4,158 by 1959, with Fayette and Mercer being particularly hard hit.

And during that period, coal production declined slightly more than 50 per cent. However, the survey said coal mine mechanization, which has brought about most of the layoffs, appeared to be leveling off.

The other two surveys have covered manpower resources of Boone, Logan, Mingo, McDowell, Raleigh and Wyoming Counties. And a similar study is to get underway in about two weeks of the Huntington-Pt. Pleasant areas.

Medical Care Allowances Are Adopted

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Hospitals treating patients under West Virginia's new medical care program for the aged will be allowed up to $20 per day, State Department of Public Assistance Director Thomas R. Egbert said Wednesday.

Egbert said that starting Thursday the old rate of 90 per cent of cost, up to a maximum of $20 a day, will be paid hospitals only for those persons getting treatment under the old medical care program for the some 20,000 indigent in the state.

The West Virginia Hospital Association had adopted a resolution saying, in effect, that the hospitals would not be able to absorb the cost of treating an additional 100,000 persons under the new medicare program. It said that unless the DPA reimbursed at full cost, the hospitals would be forced to charge the patients for the difference.

The association said that under the 90 per cent-of-cost rate, the DPA paid about $1.5 million for hospital treatment given the indigent in 1959. The association said this meant that the hospitals absorbed about $250,000 in costs.

Egbert said that as a result of his decision, the new six month program approved during the special session of the Legislature last month would cost about $500,000 through March 31, 1961, when the current program expires.

The director said that if the department runs short of money for the program it might be necessary to reduce the number of hospital days allowed eligible patients from the current 30 - day maximum.

Southeastern W.Va. Economic Scene Brighter

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Department of Employment Security Wednesday predicted the economic outlook for six southeastern West Virginia counties would show an improvement in the next five years.

The department released its third study of manpower resources of the state. The newest one dealing with Fayette, Greenbrier, Mercer, Monroe, Pocahontas and Summers counties.

The survey said that about 9,450 persons were unemployed in the area as of mid - June, but at th same time predicted that "a reversal of the declining employment trends of the past decade" would occur in the next few years.

Coal mine employment, the survey said, could be used to point out the jobless problems of the area. Such employment dropped from 15,281 in 1950 to 4,158 by 1959, with Fayette and Mercer being particularly hard hit.

And during that period, coal production declined slightly more than 50 per cent. However, the survey said coal mine mechanization, which has brought about most of the layoffs, appeared to be leveling off.

The other two surveys have covered manpower resources of Boone, Logan, Mingo, McDowell, Raleigh and Wyoming Counties. And a similar study is to get underway in about two weeks of the Huntington-Pt. Pleasant areas.

NYC DERAILMENT

WINFIELD, W. Va. (UPI) — Eight of 129 New York Central freight cars loaded with merchandise derailed at nearby Red House, Putnam County, Wednesday, while enroute from Columbus and Toledo, Ohio, to Charleston. No injuries were reported. Other NYC traffic was re-routed over other tracks in the area.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—One of the top discoveries of 1960, with only a month to go, is Ina Balin. Up to now 20th Century-Fox has refused to farm her out, but Bob Goldstein changed his mind when he read the script of "The Young Doctors," which Stuart Miller and Larry Turman are producing in New York early in January.

He agreed to let Ina join Fredric March, Ben Gazarra and Dick Clark in this dramatic story. Ina is already studying nursing at St. Luke's Hospital for her role. It was "From the Terrace" and "Black Orchid" that brought her to the attention of the paying customers in the theatres.

You'll pardon me if I make this a purely personal pat on the back to both MGM prexy Joe Vogel and Arthur Krim, head of United Artists, for the impact of their decision to make no more pictures in Europe that can be produced in Hollywood. Frankly bringing movie making back to Movietown has been my personal campaign of the season.

Now, in view of President Eisenhower's dramatic warning that as many American dollars as possible must be spent in the United States, not abroad, the decision of these two studio heads is a wise and timely one. The flight of gold reserve from the United States is one of the biggest problems facing our economy. The safety of our money, like charity, should begin at home.

The very pretty blonde Diane McBaine had an early Christmas present when Jack L. Warner told her that she is to play the title role in "Claudette Inglish," from Erskine Caldwell's novel. Many girls were tested but boss Warner was impressed with Diane's beauty and acting ability in "Parrish." She also has the lead in the new TV series "Surfside 6."

Arthur Kennedy, one of our better actors, plays Diane's father in "Claudette English" which will be directed by Gordon Douglas and produced by Leonard Freeman.

Not by the wildest stretch of imagination could you ever picture Bob Hope being serious long enough to carry on an extra-marital movie romance. Yet he is so good and so believable and, with all, so funny in "The Facts of Life" that it can be put down as one of the comedies of the year.

He and Lucille Ball are perfect together. She has never photographed as well or looked as young and attractive. Conscience and common sense win out in "The Facts of Life," but the scenes are so hilarious that this could very well come in for Academy Award consideration. Hope we'll see Bob and Lucille teamed again in other motion pictures.

Right now Lucille's New York play "Wildcat" is taking all her time. When I was in New York her play was in Philadelphia and I didn't get to see it, but I am told she is, as always, delightful. Few comediennes have her timing.

A few days ago George Burns and his brother Willie were sitting in his office when an 18-year-old girl walked in and started singing "Bill Bailey Won't You Come Home," "Mack, the Knife" and other numbers. She was so good and had such a different style of singing that George put her under contract. She explained that she flew in from Northwestern University where she's a sophomore, and her name is Ann-Margret Olesen. She said she had read in my column that George had started Bobby Darin.

To get to the point, the young lady will be known as Ann-Margret. She opens with George at the Sahara in Las Vegas over the Christmas holidays, and she will be on his show in July. She will return to school after the holidays. And that is how stars are sometimes born.

The Robert Wilder book "The Sun is My Shadow" published by Putnam, is receiving offers for the motion picture rights. I was curious about the books because I was told it was a composite picture of some of our most famous newspaperwomen.

It couldn't be about Cissy Patterson, as was said, because Carol, the ruthless heroine in the book, is nothing like Cissy whom I knew for so many years. The author isn't committing himself, but it's really raw meat, his book, about a woman who gave up everything to dominate the newspaper field.

Dressmaker Helped By Friendship With 'Jackie'

By CHARLES B. ENGELKE

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An attractive, soft-spoken woman who left Washington to avoid being "an obscure dressmaker" all her life, has become a not-so-obscure designer because of her friendship with a certain Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Mini Rhea came here last spring and opened a salon at 2016 Walnut St. Business has been brisk, but Mrs. Rhea is shelving all but the most pressing problems in order to concentrate on designing an inaugural gown she hopes will be selected by Mrs. Kennedy who will become the nation's First Lady next January.

Mrs. Rhea believes there's "not a ghost of a chance" that her design will be chosen.

"I really would be flabbergasted if it were," she said.

She, along with some of the top designers in the nation, was invited by Women's Wear Daily, a trade publication, to submit a sketch for the inaugural ball gown.

She Is Widow

A native of Gulfport, Miss., Mrs. Rhea is the widow of a career Marine Corps officer who died in 1947. Shortly before her husband's death Mrs. Rhea turned to dressmaking to support her two children.

Before too long she had an impressive list of customers in Washington, including the wives of top government and diplomatic officials.

She first met the future First Lady in 1949 when "Jackie started coming to me right after she returned home from studying in Paris," Mrs. Rhea said.

"Her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, also was a customer of mine, and so was her sister — now the Countess Radziwill."

No "Clothes Horse"

"Jackie loved to design her own clothes and we would work out her ideas together," Mrs. Rhea said. "She's very conscious of what she likes, very much interested in clothes. But she's definitely not a 'clothes horse.'"

Mrs. Rhea remembers Jacqueline Kennedy as a pretty girl who used to dash in and out of her shop in the Georgetown section of Washington.

"You might say I knew her when, and she knew me when," Mrs. Rhea said. "To me she was just a lovely young girl. I never dreamed she would be famous."

Just about the time Jacqueline Bouvier married the now president-elect, Mrs. Rhea gave up her Washington business because of illness and went to work as a fashion executive for a Baltimore store. She remained in Baltimore three years and then returned to Washington and reopened her shop.

Has Simple Taste

She came to Philadelphia last spring because she wanted to establish herself in a new community as a custom dress designer.

"If I had stayed in Washington I would always have been an obscure dressmaker," Mrs. Rhea said.

Mrs. Rhea summed up Mrs. Kennedy's fashion taste in one word — simplicity.

"She doesn't like clutter, too much jewelry or collars. She likes strong colors with a definite leaning toward vivid pinks. And she's very enthusiastic about beautiful fabrics."

Jackie is a "tall" size 10, Mrs. Rhea said, adding that Mrs. Kennedy is "a charming person. . . just as sweet as she can be."

"And she's even prettier in person," Mrs. Rhea added. "She has a terrific personality which doesn't project in pictures."

B & O Worker Ends Service

He is R. T. Tabler, who was chief caller. He entered the railroad service in 1905 and compiled 55 years employment. He started as a messenger.

During his lengthy railroad career he was a yard clerk, yardmaster, station master and finally chief caller. Tabler resides with his wife at 622 Oldtown Road.

R. W. Pitcher, terminal trainmaster, congratulated Tabler on his retirement Tuesday and fellow employes presented him with a pot of money.

The present state of California was ceded to the United States after the Mexican war.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a peace-loving guy, 26. I'm not handsome, but I'm 5' 11, weigh 170 pounds, have read a book or two, and I hold a promising position with a good firm.

I don't make much of a hit with girls and I've always thought it's because I'm not aggressive. I talked with a buddy recently and he has more frails on his trail than he can handle. I asked for the "formula". He told me that women like to be treated rough. He said he slaps 'em if they get too mouthy in an argument.

I was amazed. I've never hit a woman in my life and can't see myself doing it. If this is what they like maybe I'd better learn how. Please comment.

—NO ROMEO

DEAR ROMEO: Some women DO like to get batted around, but they're sick. These poor things probably had fathers who were brutal and are attracted to these miserable types because it reminds them of dear ol' dad.

Most women want no part of physical violence and they will not tolerate it. If you try belting a normal woman I promise you you'll see stars no astrologer ever heard of.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've been married 11 years and during that time we've become involved in a demanding and rigorous social routine. It was fun in the early years but now we admit the card-playing, barbecues, and cocktail parties are a bore. The financial strain is beginning to show, too. But we hate to offend our friends by refusing their invitations. How can we get off this merry-go-round? —M AND N

DEAR M AND N: How did you get off the merry-go-round at the fair-grounds when you were a little girl? When the music slowed down or stopped momentarily, you just got off. This method still works.

Interests change as time goes on. Couples you found fascinating at 23 may bore you at 34. It takes a lot of "won't-power" to refuse an invitation and just stay at home, but if you are serious about withdrawing from the rat race, there's no other way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You'll never print this letter because it isn't interesting enough, but I wanted to let you know that there are SOME people in this world who lead decent, wholesome lives.

I'm not beautiful and my husband isn't handsome. We've been married 14 years and the house is almost ours. The car is a '55 Chevy but it gets us there. Our kids are fairly well-behaved, all four of them. There's not a genius in the bunch, but they are a joy to us.

If my husband wants to work a night or two a week, I don't worry that he's seeing some cutie. We serve liquor but don't drink it so we don't have THAT problem. We have an occosional blow-up, but nobody stays mad long.

I'm sure there must be others like us around but your readers never hear about them. Thanks for taking the time to read this. I enjoyed writing it.

—JUST FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: I don't get many letters from happily married people because this is a problem column. I hope you'll continue to read me—if for no other reason than to remind yourselves how lucky you are.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Suit Removed To Court Here

A suit against the Washington County Board of Commissioners has been moved to Circuit Court here for trial.

Raymond T. White, 1416 Potomac Avenue, Hagerstown, brought the suit against the Washington County officials in Circuit Court in Hagerstown claiming $80,000 in connection with rental of a power shovel to the county.

The bill of complaint filed by Martin V. B. Hostetter, Hagerstown attorney, states that an agreement was entered into by White with the Washington County board to rent a power shovel for $2,114.40 per month. An additional cost of $830 for moving the equipment was also included, it was stated.

The suit was ordered removed here for trial by Associate Judge D. Kenneth McLaughlin because it was stated a fair and impartial trial could not be obtained in Washington County.

In an answer to the suit, John M. Cohen, attorney to the Washington County commissioners, denied the claim of White. It was stated the actual rental which has not been paid was $37,002.

The flight of gold reserve from the United States is one of the biggest problems facing our economy. The safety of our money, like charity, should begin at home.

The very pretty blonde. Diane McBaine had an early Christmas present when Jack L. Warner told her that she is to play the title role in "Claudette Inglish," from Erskine Caldwell's novel. Many girls were tested but boss Warner was impressed with Diane's beauty and acting ability in "Parrish." She also has the lead in the new TV series "Surfside 6."

Arthur Kennedy, one of our better actors, plays Diane's father in "Claudette English" which will be directed by Gordon Douglas and produced by Leonard Freeman.

Not by the wildest stretch of imagination could you ever picture Bob Hope being serious long enough to carry on an extra-marital movie romance. Yet he is so good and so believable and, with all, so funny in "The Facts of Life" that it can be put down as one of the comedies of the year.

He and Lucille Ball are perfect together. She has never photographed as well or looked as young and attractive. Conscience and common sense win out in "The Facts of Life," but the scenes are so hilarious that this could very well come in for Academy Award consideration. Hope we'll see Bob and Lucille teamed again in other motion pictures.

Right now Lucille's New York play "Wildcat" is taking all her time. When I was in New York her play was in Philadelphia and I didn't get to see it, but I am told she is, as always, delightful. Few comediennes have her timing.

A few days ago George Burns and his brother Willie were sitting in his office when an 18-year-old girl walked in and started singing "Bill Bailey Won't You Come Home," "Mack, the Knife" and other numbers. She was so good and had such a different style of singing that George put her under contract. She explained that she flew in from Northwestern University where she's a sophomore, and her name is Ann-Margret Olesen. She said she had read in my column that George had started Bobby Darin.

To get to the point, the young lady will be known as Ann-Margret. She opens with George at the Sahara in Las Vegas over the Christmas holidays, and she will be on his show in July. She will return to school after the holidays. And that is how stars are sometimes born.

The Robert Wilder book "The Sun is My Shadow" published by Putnam, is receiving offers for the motion picture rights. I was curious about the books because I was told it was a composite picture of some of our most famous newspaperwomen.

It couldn't be about Cissy Patterson, as was said, because Carol, the ruthless heroine in the book, is nothing like Cissy whom I knew for so many years. The author isn't committing himself, but it's really raw meat, his book, about a woman who gave up everything to dominate the newspaper field.

Dressmaker Helped By Friendship With 'Jackie'

By CHARLES B. ENGELKE

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An attractive, soft-spoken woman who left Washington to avoid being "an obscure dressmaker" all her life, has become a not-so-obscure designer because of her friendship with a certain Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Mini Rhea came here last spring and opened a salon at 2016 Walnut St. Business has been brisk, but Mrs. Rhea is shelving all but the most pressing problems in order to concentrate on designing an inaugural gown she hopes will be selected by Mrs. Kennedy who will become the nation's First Lady next January.

Mrs. Rhea believes there's "not a ghost of a chance" that her design will be chosen.

"I really would be flabbergasted if it were," she said.

She, along with some of the top designers in the nation, was invited by Women's Wear Daily, a trade publication, to submit a sketch for the inaugural ball gown.

She Is Widow

A native of Gulfport, Miss., Mrs. Rhea is the widow of a career Marine Corps officer who died in 1947. Shortly before her husband's death Mrs. Rhea turned to dressmaking to support her two children.

Before too long she had an impressive list of customers in Washington, including the wives of top government and diplomatic officials.

She first met the future First Lady in 1949 when "Jackie started coming to me right after she returned home from studying in Paris," Mrs. Rhea said.

"Her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, also was a customer of mine, and so was her sister — now the Countess Radziwill."

No "Clothes Horse"

"Jackie loved to design her own clothes and we would work out her ideas together," Mrs. Rhea said. "She's very conscious of what she likes, very much interested in clothes. But she's definitely not a 'clothes horse.'"

Mrs. Rhea remembers Jacqueline Kennedy as a pretty girl who used to dash in and out of her shop in the Georgetown section of Washington.

"You might say I knew her when, and she knew me when," Mrs. Rhea said. "To me she was just a lovely young girl. I never dreamed she would be famous."

Just about the time Jacqueline Bouvier married the now president-elect, Mrs. Rhea gave up her Washington business because of illness and went to work as a fashion executive for a Baltimore store. She remained in Baltimore three years and then returned to Washington and reopened her shop.

Has Simple Taste

She came to Philadelphia last spring because she wanted to establish herself in a new community as a custom dress designer.

"If I had stayed in Washington I would always have been an obscure dressmaker," Mrs. Rhea said.

Mrs. Rhea summed up Mrs. Kennedy's fashion taste in one word — simplicity.

"She doesn't like clutter, too much jewelry or collars. She likes strong colors with a definite leaning toward vivid pinks. And she's very enthusiastic about beautiful fabrics."

Jackie is a "tall" size 10, Mrs. Rhea said, adding that Mrs. Kennedy is "a charming person. . . just as sweet as she can be."

"And she's even prettier in person," Mrs. Rhea added. "She has a terrific personality which doesn't project in pictures."

B & O Worker Ends Service

He is R. T. Tabler, who was chief caller. He entered the railroad service in 1905 and compiled 55 years employment. He started as a messenger.

During his lengthy railroad career he was a yard clerk, yardmaster, station master and finally chief caller. Tabler resides with his wife at 622 Oldtown Road.

R. W. Pitcher, terminal trainmaster, congratulated Tabler on his retirement Tuesday and fellow employes presented him with a pot of money.

The present state of California was ceded to the United States after the Mexican war.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a peace-loving guy, 26. I'm not handsome, but I'm 5' 11, weigh 170 pounds, have read a book or two, and I hold a promising position with a good firm.

I don't make much of a hit with girls and I've always thought it's because I'm not aggressive. I talked with a buddy recently and he has more frails on his trail than he can handle. I asked for the "formula". He told me that women like to be treated rough. He said he slaps 'em if they get too mouthy in an argument.

I was amazed. I've never hit a woman in my life and can't see myself doing it. If this is what they like maybe I'd better learn how. Please comment.

—NO ROMEO

DEAR ROMEO: Some women DO like to get batted around, but they're sick. These poor things probably had fathers who were brutal and are attracted to these miserable types because it reminds them of dear ol' dad.

Most women want no part of physical violence and they will not tolerate it. If you try belting a normal woman I promise you you'll see stars no astrologer ever heard of.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've been married 11 years and during that time we've become involved in a demanding and rigorous social routine. It was fun in the early years but now we admit the card-playing, barbecues, and cocktail parties are a bore. The financial strain is beginning to show, too. But we hate to offend our friends by refusing their invitations. How can we get off this merry-go-round? —M AND N

DEAR M AND N: How did you get off the merry-go-round at the fair-grounds when you were a little girl? When the music slowed down or stopped momentarily, you just got off. This method still works.

Interests change as time goes on. Couples you found fascinating at 23 may bore you at 34. It takes a lot of "won't-power" to refuse an invitation and just stay at home, but if you are serious about withdrawing from the rat race, there's no other way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You'll never print this letter because it isn't interesting enough, but I wanted to let you know that there are SOME people in this world who lead decent, wholesome lives.

I'm not beautiful and my husband isn't handsome. We've been married 14 years and the house is almost ours. The car is a '55 Chevy but it gets us there. Our kids are fairly well-behaved, all four of them. There's not a genius in the bunch, but they are a joy to us.

If my husband wants to work a night or two a week, I don't worry that he's seeing some cutie. We serve liquor but don't drink it so we don't have THAT problem. We have an occosional blow-up, but nobody stays mad long.

I'm sure there must be others like us around but your readers never hear about them. Thanks for taking the time to read this. I enjoyed writing it.

—JUST FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: I don't get many letters from happily married people because this is a problem column. I hope you'll continue to read me—if for no other reason than to remind yourselves how lucky you are.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Suit Removed To Court Here

A suit against the Washington County Board of Commissioners has been moved to Circuit Court here for trial.

Raymond T. White, 1416 Potomac Avenue, Hagerstown, brought the suit against the Washingfon County officials in Circuit Court in Hagerstown claiming $80,000 in connection with rental of a power shovel to the county.

The bill of complaint filed by Martin V. B. Hostetter, Hagerstown attorney, states that an agreement was entered into by White with the Washington County board to rent a power shovel for $2,114.40 per month. An additional cost of $830 for moving the equipment was also included, it was stated.

The suit was ordered removed here for trial by Associate Judge D. Kenneth McLaughlin because it was stated a fair and impartial trial could not be obtained in Washington County.

In an answer to the suit, John M. Cohen, attorney to the Washington County commissioners, denied the claim of White. It was stated the actual rental which has not been paid was $37,002.

Rotary Club Activities Outlined In Talk Here

The international scope of Rotary activities was outlined by R. Paul Smith, Hagerstown, governor of Rotary District 735, at a conference with local Rotary officials Tuesday.

More than 10,600 clubs of the organization in 116 countries are working to promote understanding, good will and peace, Smith said. One of Rotary's major projects, he continued, is the award of student fellowships which enable college graduates to study for a year in counties other than their own.

Terming the recipients of the fellowships as "Rotary ambassadors of good will," Smith said Rotary International has awarded grants of more than $3,300,000 since the program was inaugurated in 1947. Rotary Foundation Fellowships, he continued, have been awarded to 1,322 students in 68 countries for study in 45 countries. The grants have averaged $2,500, Smith said.

The district governor also pointed out that Rotary provides a common ground for nearly 500,000 business and professional men throughout the world. The 42 affiliated clubs in the district also place emphasis upon community betterment and vocational service undertakings, Smith stated.

He also called attention to the fact that the annual district conference will be held April 30 at Bedford, Pa.

In a message to exiled Archbishop Francois Poirier of Port au Prince, the pontiff expressed his "profound sorrow" at the "injustice" done the high churchman and sent him a special apostolic blessing.

To Sue Magazines

PARIS (UPI) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband Eddie Fisher announced Wednesday they will sue several American magazines for "malicious libel."

The couple issued a statement which identified the magazines only as "motion picture fan magazines." It said articles in the magazines had distorted facts about the movie couple and had involved their children. It said attorney Louis Nizer of New York will represent them.

Pony Express Arrives Today In Romney

The Pony Express is "delivering the mail" again and residents along U.S. Route 50 will be able to see the riders in action today, according to American Legion spokesmen.

As part of the Legion's "Crusade for God and Freedom," and in connection with the 100th anniversary of the Pony Express, riders are transporting across country a letter for delivery to President Eisenhower calling on Americans to unite in the fight against athiestic communism.

The Pony Express is due to arrive in nearby Romney (W. Va.) at noon today, according to officials of Hampshire Post 91, American Legion, who have been advised that the "scouts" are using Route 50 on the home-leg of the transcontinental trip.

The "Freedom Riders" left Los Angeles on Veterans Day and have been operating on a 24-hour schedule ever since. The chief scout is TV star Mickey Finn and other riders were recruited from the ranks of rodeo stars.

The horses and riders are being transported in a motor caravan, with each horse and scout operating on a schedule of riding two hours and resting 10 hours.

The letter they are carrying to the president is inscribed on leather.

State Is Given School Budget For Fiscal Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland was asked Wednesday to spend $5½ million more for public school education next year and there is scant room for budget cutters to do anything about it if they desire.

About $5,100,000 of the increase is mandatory under the formulas for state aid to education now in existence.

"As long as enrollments continue to rise faster than assessable wealth, the aid to education budget will rise, too," said William Sartorius, the department's fiscal chief.

State aid to education is coupled with property assessments in the 23 counties and Baltimore City.

It will amount to $93,550,064 during the fiscal year starting next July 1, according to the department's proposed budget.

The total budget requests for education are $117,597,647.

The State Board of Education sent it to the Department of Budget and Procurement where it will be screened before being included in the recommendations by Gov. Tawes to the General Assembly convening in January.

Outside of the prescribed aid to schools, Gov. Tawes or the legislature may chop other proposed increases in the education budget.

One calls for the State to give $200 instead of $150 toward each student at a junior college. Gov. Tawes rejected it last year.

He may also cut, if he wishes, a requested increase of $1,655,840 to operate the five teacher colleges. Also subject to change is $2,021,603 for teacher scholarships and appropriations to colleges.

Prince Georges with $11,162,632 and Montgomery with $10,363,748 receive the largest amounts among the counties in state aid.

Other proposed total-aid allotments included $3,247,788 for Allegany County; $2,609,435 for Frederick and $3,536,176 for Washington.

Two Men Jailed In Mower Theft

Two local men were sentenced yesterday to serve 30-day terms in the Allegany County Jail in connection with the theft of a power mower from a garage in the rear of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

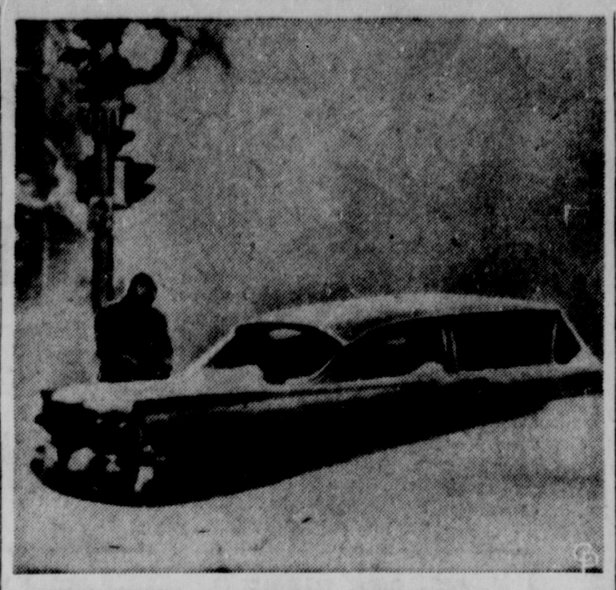

The men, booked as George Bernard Lease, 624 Maryland Avenue, and Harry Reger, city, pleaded guilty of the theft at a hearing before Magistrate Paul W. Barnett in Trial Magistrates Court.

Capt. James E. Van presented statements signed by the men in connection with the charge.

Lt. Donald Smith and Officer Harvey apprehended Lease pushing the power mower down Oldtown Road Tuesday night. Reger was picked up a short time later.

$200 Million To Be Asked For W.Va. Roads

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Highway Users Conference has set up a committee to draft a resolution to present to the 1961 legislature another $200 million road bond proposal.

The same type proposal died in the past two legislative sessions.

The conference, composed of representatives of some 20 organizations whose members depend on roads for their operations, voted in favor Tuesday of presenting the bond issue proposal to voters in the 1962 general election.

However, a resolution to get the question on the ballot must first be approved by the legislature.

The plan favored by the conference provides for $50 million toward retiring the present revolving road fund and $150 million for immediate road improvements.

Emmett J. Bush, conference vice chairman, told the group that present highway revenues sources "just don't provide enough money to move ahead." Bush said if the Road Commission had the money, it could spend up to $138 million over the next 18 months for primary and secondary road work.

More than 75 per cent of the population in 14 states is now covered by health insurance, with New York at the top with 90.7 per cent coverage, according to the Health Insurance Institute.

U. Of Md. Sets Up Plan For Undergrad Branch

BALTIMORE (AP) — The University of Maryland made a preliminary move Wednesday toward setting up an undergraduate branch in Baltimore next fall.

The board of regents, governing body of the university, ordered a survey to determine by January the requirements for a temporary Baltimore-area branch near the Baltimore graduate-schools campus. It directed a more extensive study of the requirements for a permanent branch.

Richard W. Case, a member of the board and close adviser to Gov. Tawes, said it was his "understanding" that "the present administration is committed to the creation of an undergraduate branch somewhere in the metropolitan area."

The decision of the regents came only a few weeks after the governor indicated he had abandoned, at least temporarily, a plan to convert three state teachers colleges into university branches.

The Department of Education, which now governs the three institutions, vigorously opposes the plan, which was suggested by a governor's commission under Edwin Warfield III and would have affected teachers colleges at Frostburg, Towson and Salisbury.

The proposal was intended primarily to relieve crowded dining and housing facilities at the university's main campus in College Park by making undergraduate courses available to students within commuting distance of their homes.

Some relief of the College Park housing squeeze would result from creation of a university branch in the Baltimore area.

8,656 Fans Paid To See Turkey Day Grid Game

Although the stadium was packed with standing room only on Thanksgiving Day, no new record for admissions was set for the Fort Hill-Allegany clash which the Campers won, 21-0, according to Dr. W. Ardell Haines, AHS principal.

Records showed 8,656 persons paid to see the game, far short of the record 9,792 paid admissions for the 1948 Turkey Day clash between the two schools. Approximately 9,016 persons saw the game, Dr. Haines said, including complimentary passes and paid admissions. This figure, however, does not include ushers, ticket collectors, police and others assigned to duty at the game, he added.

KEEP IT CLEAN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The City Health Department here has assigned four employes to make personal visits to householders.

The object of the home inspections: To encourage proper disposal of garbage and rubbish, control animal nuisances and reduce accident hazards.

Often the handrails used on basement stairs are rough and unfinished. To avoid getting splinters, sand the wood until it is smooth and then coat with at least two layers of enamel or varnish.

Those Agonizing Self-Appraisals

Those puzzled by the recent flurry of apologies for America's success and vigor as a nation will probably notice that the pendulum now seems headed back. In evidence may be offered the comments of Gen. Leslie Groves, Malcolm Muggeridge and Eric Larrabee.

Speaking with the authority of a man who directed the atomic Manhattan Project, General Groves says one of our great dangers today is a national feeling that there is something wicked in the success of the United States.

Mr. Muggeridge, who offers some acute observations in the guise of humor, finds it absurd that the United States should poll the world on whether we're liked or not. "The rich and powerful are always disliked," Mr. Muggeridge says. "The fact is the American way of life you have created has become what practically everyone in the world wants—even though I think they are somewhat misguided."

Mr. Larrabee, managing editor of American Heritage, takes up the subject of American success in his book, "The Self Conscious Society." Our generation, he says, has acquired an awareness of itself, one of the inevitable by-products of which is the sense of one's feebleness and futility. In the old days this was generally referred to as humility and considered a saving grace.

Somewhere between the fading fad of belittling our national accomplishments to make the world like us better, and boastful pride in things American there must be a new rallying point. For in its success, the growing America exhibited a remarkable measure of charity and idealism toward the world.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Gold Rush

Let us look at this gold problem realistically and analyze the facts no matter how unpleasant:

1. We need, first of all, to analyze what the various countries owe to us and on what terms. These agreements are not always public nor do the available data explain quite what the amounts are, when they are due, in what form they are to be paid.

If we can get back what is owing to us in gold, we shall undoubtedly find a large addition to our gold stocks.

2. What is our government doing about "hot money"? Several years ago, I raised the question of "hot money" and a Senate committee began to make an investigation. But it was soon called off. The "hot money" runs into billions.

What is "hot money"?

There are several kinds, the most usual being money deposited abroad for purposes of tax evasion and tax avoidance. Considerable sums, running into billions of dollars, are on deposit in Switzerland, Nassau, Venezuela, Panama, and Hongkong. Furthermore, a study needs to be made of the shift around of dollars between the United States and Canada involving such commodities as newsprint, craft paper, whisky and other liquors.

The hidden money is not limited to the illegally possessed funds of racketeers but involves many of the most respectable men in business and banking. The probability is that if the United States were able to call in funds hidden away or if our currency, which is now green, were printed red or purple and 60 days were allowed for the change-over from one colored currency to another, those who have evaded taxes by hiding their money abroad, would be sore put to it to become honest men. For whoever possessed the green currency, after a certain date, would find it convertible only by the Federal Reserve Bank which would demand a full explanation as to the source of the funds and why no taxes were paid on them. This would bring the government an enormous return, all from abroad.

"Hot money" classically is money from gambling, from bootlegging, from taking cash under the table in commercial transactions, etc., etc. Whoever owns "hot money" faces the problem of legitimatizing it. One may have millions stuck away in a Swiss bank but there comes a time when it must be used in legitimate transactions to be useful. This is no easy matter. If one holds such "hot money" in the United States, unless it be of a very small amount, it becomes a menace. He cannot get rid of it; he cannot use it; it might be stolen or burned or lost. Therefore, the smart owner of such money finds a way to get it out of the country.

Switzerland offers an excellent haven for such crookedness. A Swiss bank will hold a nameless account to which is given a number and nobody in the bank but its most confidential officers will know whose account it is. The bank will then undertake to "manage" the money for a fee. Such management is not in the owner's name but is in the name of a Swiss bank or a Swiss lawyer. Thus the money, stolen though it may be, is legitimatized. It owns American securities or American business houses or American land, or for that matter, similar properties in other countries. The beneficial owners are never disclosed, Swiss laws protecting the anonymity of the owners of this money.

Thus far, the government of the United States has never been able to break through this secrecy. It cannot discover the names of the Americans who are robbing the government of the United States.

Switzerland's non-cooperativeness in this is not unique. None of the tax haven countries cooperate with the United States. Much can be done. For instance, the withdrawal of green money say in 60 days and the rejection of such money without adequate explanation as to its original source and evidence of the payment of income tax. The Swiss banks would be clogged with unusable American dollars.

Of course, the exchange value of the green dollar would temporarily fall. The only ones to suffer would be the thieves who eluded their due responsibility as citizens by hiding their money abroad. An honest man would lose nothing because he could convert from green dollars to red or purple dollars without the slightest difficulty.

The Report On Future Goals For The U. S.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — An important report has just been issued by President Eisenhower's Commission on National Goals. It is about 20,000 words long. It contains some penetrating observations. But who will read the full text of it? It covers two newspaper pages. How many newspapers could possibly give space in a single day to such a big output of words without sacrificing other news? Yet the commission says:

"In far too many communities newspapers are inadequate in their coverage of significant public affairs. The problem of interesting and informing mass audiences, which most media must serve, is a constant challenge."

If this same commission had given a little thought to how its own report might have gotten wider attention, and if other government agencies would do likewise, there would be a greater spread of such information.

There is, for instance, no reason why this same report could not have been divided into separate sections, with each one released on a different day through a whole week. Thus, the section on foreign trade could have been dealt with separately. So also the section on national defense is a problem by itself. Similarly, recommendations on foreign policy might well have been the subject of a single release. Education is too important a topic to be merged with several others in one report.

Many parts of the big report are, of course, highly controversial. It is too bad that a dissenting opinion on one or two points is buried at the end of the long report instead of being printed immediately after the section that deals with this topic. An example is what the commission says on racial discrimination in employment:

"One role of government is to stimulate changes of attitude. Additional municipal, state, and federal legislation is essential. The federal government should enforce the principle that federal funds shall not be disbursed to employers who discriminate on the basis of race. Similar policies should progressively be applied to federal grants for universities, hospitals, and airports and to federal housing programs."

This is a sweeping recommendation, and a sharp dissent was voiced by a business member. For it's a short step from such a proposal to a law forbidding tax deductions to any business that doesn't hire the employes that the federal government may wish to select for that business, irrespective of efficiency. Naturally, it might seem to require an amendment to the Federal Constitution to do such things. But this is no problem for those who believe the present amending process is too "time-consuming," as President Franklin D. Roosevelt once said, and that it is much simpler to pick new judges to do any rewriting of the Constitution that may be desired.

The Commission on National Goals says some very fine things in its report and does lay stress on individual responsibility and the need for preservation of the free-enterprise system. But this appears to be contradicted by recommendations for bigger and bigger outlays of federal money for sociological purposes. Almost nowhere, except in the dissenting portions of the report, is any concern exhibited over the high rates of taxation faced by both business and individuals. No suggestions are made on how to produce more tax money, though there are many thousands of words about how to increase national output and augment our national growth.

Some generalities and abstractions are to be found in this report — as in many others and in public speeches by prominent persons in both political parties—in handling delicately the subject of relations between management and labor. The idea seems to be that these two economic groups, when properly exhorted, will cooperate in a utopian manner. There is not a single sentence about the damage being done to the whole economic structure — both in domestic and foreign trade — by the political ambitions of labor-union leaders who capitalize on greed and selfishness and let the public interest suffer. Much is often said about the need for higher wages, but little is said about the need for higher productivity and the elimination of waste.

Even an analysis of the commission's report cannot be done in a single dispatch, especially as to those broad and significant recommendations about nuclear weapons and the whole Communist operation in the "cold war." This in many ways affects our "national goals" more than anything else in the realm of national planning.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CABINET CHOICES — There is more than meets the eye in constant speculation about the make-up of President-elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet.

Signs point to an effort on the part of the GOP bloc in the Senate to examine minutely, and probably at great length, Kennedy's selections for Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, Secretary of Labor, and possibly Secretary of the Treasury.

It will be recalled that Senate Democrats gave Charles E. Wilson a tough time when he was being considered as President Eisenhower's first Secretary of Defense.

Republicans believe that the Democratic effort was not so much to tarnish Wilson as to create the impression that Eisenhower's Cabinet was representative of "big business" rather than of all the people.

Republicans resented that, and some are determined to use Senate nomination hearings to develop their idea that Kennedy's selections are ultra-liberal and beholden to labor exclusively.

This is particularly true in the Labor post, where UAW President Walter Reuther will have an influential say in who is named.

Could Better Auto Design Cut Traffic Toll?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The death toll on the highway has not changed in more than a decade and it is time for a different approach. The suggestion has been made on many occasions that the cause be found and eliminated by the same methods used in eradicating epidemics of typhoid, malaria, and other infections.

For some time we have blamed these accidents on drunken, crazy, or impatient drivers. Slogans have been devised to encourage safe driving and the law has cracked down on speeders and reckless drivers.

But Irwin D. J. Bross, Ph.D., of Buffalo, points out that blaming sinners for traffic mishaps today is similar to blaming plague and other epidemics of centuries ago on the wrongdoings of the victims. The authorities arrested sinners and burned heretics to stop the epidemics but, as with accident, it did not work because the real cause was not known. Plague was eliminated when the causative germ was found and when it became known that fleas on infected rats transmitted the infection to man.

Dr. Bross believes we can cut the highway toll in half within the next 10 years by making our cars safe enough to withstand collisions so as to minimize injury to passengers. The plan begins with an extensive fact finding program similar to that of the Cornell Automotive Crash Injury Research program.

The group goes into the minutest details of every auto accident to determine why some victims in identical accidents are mangled or killed whereas others survive. For example, more people live if they are not thrown out of a car after the door springs open. Would a lock with an extra quarter of an inch of steel prevent the door from opening?

Seat belts are the alternative but few will wear them. Statistics to date show that a stronger door lock might have saved one-fifth of the toll. The same might be said of stronger tops and other improvements in car design, with safety in mind.

ANIMAL DANDER

F. G. writes: My 10 year old son is allergic to animal dander; so we have no pets. Several children in the neighborhood to which we just moved have dogs. Is it safe for my boys to play with them or will his nose and eyes start running?

REPLY

Yes, but the reaction may be delayed if your boy is not overly sensitive and contact is minimized.

LOOKSEE

A. W. writes: What are the different things a doctor sees (besides jaundice) when he examines the eyes?

REPLY

Their luster (or lackluster), size, reaction of the pupils, eye movements, and condition of the lids. The physician also may use an ophthalmoscope to examine the optic nerve and the blood vessels in the retina.

HEART VALVE DISORDER

R. B. writes: Could mitral stenosis develop from a short bout of rheumatic fever in which the joint was not affected?

REPLY

Yes. A typical forms of rheumatic fever occur. In some instances, the heart is affected without joint involvement.

SLEEPING BLINKERS

E. W. writes: Is it harmful to the eyes to sleep blindfolded every night?

REPLY

No. Our Creator gave us upper and lower lids to make this possible. Blinders often are used by persons who cannot sleep when the room is light.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

The high price of a good cook in New York produced a brand-new crisis in the home of a prominent merchant. The newly acquired queen of the kitchen made no move whatever to prepare dinner her first night on the job.

"At the salary you're paying me," replied the new cook loftily, "I don't have to cook in a hot kitchen. I'm taking you all out for dinner at the Colony."

Ford Company Sent Dollars Abroad As Ike Tried To Ease Money Drain

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—On almost the very same day President Eisenhower was signing an order for the return of American Servicemen's wives from Europe, the Ford Motor Company was signing an order whereby it would buy $305,000,000 worth of stock in its subsidiary in England.

This drain of $305,000,000 to England amounts to more than the number of dollars saved by keeping wives from joining American servicemen in England for one whole year. In other words, while the Eisenhower administration was saving on the dollar drain at the expense of the man serving his country in the ranks, one of Ike's best friends in the industrial world was draining more dollars out of the USA.

The Ford family has been one of the President's stanchest political supporters. In his first election, Ford dealers were assessed from $100 to $1,000 contributions for the Eisenhower political campaign, based on the number of cars they sold. In Michigan, Henry Ford has consistently been one of the most energetic Eisenhower boosters.

In 1956, the Ford family contributed $36,899 for Ike's re-election.

In England, the Ford Motor Company already controlled 54 per cent of its subsidiary, yet chose the identical moment when the President was protecting the dollar by curtailing servicemen's wives, to spend $305,000,000 buying up the balance of the stock in its subsidiary.

Note—Wonder how soldiers' absentee ballots would have been marked had they known before election that their wives would have to come home?

Headlines And Footnotes

Army and Air Force chaplains have warned that both morale and the moral conduct of American servicemen overseas will decline the minute Eisenhower's cut ack on families takes effect. The Defense Department is quietly preparing to cope with new social problems after the servicemen are separated from their wives . . . The Marine Corps has just finished spending $4,500 of the taxpayers' money at Camp H. M. Smith, Hawaii, to build a package salesroom for selling liquor . . . Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, the first Secretary of the Air Force, told President-elect Kennedy that he definitely does not want to be Secretary of Defense. Kennedy replied he was having a hard time deciding upon a defense chief. He mentioned Roswel Gilpatric, formerly in the Air Force, now a New York attorney, and Byron "Whizzer" White, a Denver attorney . . . Some Intelligence reports claim there is not the slightest evidence that Fidel Castro had anything to do with the rebellions in Guatemala, Nicaragu and Costa Rica.

Chairman Morton's Humor

GOP Chairman Thruston Morton, who has a gorgeous sense of humor and comes from a state, Kentucky, where it's not unheard of to steal votes, told this story to a group of political scientists some time ago—in fact, before the Republicans began their drive to recount "stolen" votes in Illinois and Texas.

Morton told how in his first race for the Senate he had called his county manager in the remote mountain part of Kentucky to ask how he was getting on in the east.

"How are you getting on in central Kentucky?" the county manager replied.

"I'm leading, but what about your county?" asked Morton.

"How are you doing in western Kentucky?" countered his manager.

"I'm even. But what about your county?" pressed the would-be Senator from Kentucky.

"How about northern Kentucky?" asked the manager from the eastern mountains.

"The few returns show I'm ahead, but what about your county?"

"I'm praying for you," said the manager.

"Stop praying," yelled Thruston, "and start stealing."

The county usually turned in a 3,000 Republican majority but this time the county manager produced 4,000 for Morton.

Strange Things

By John Crosby

There are a good many omens and portents around the world that life as we know it is changing, not necessarily for the better. In England, Anthony Neil Wedgwood Benn is trying very hard and not very successfully to avoid becoming a viscount, an unpleasantness that descended on him when his father died. Mr. Benn wants to remain plain Mister rather than Viscount Stansgate, which the law quite plainly says he is.

The mind reels. All our lives the dream of becoming a lord, or, if you're a girl, marrying one, has been standard fantasy for just about everyone. If people start turning down titles, how will we manage? Have to rewrite Gilbert and Sullivan. It's not at all easy to divest yourself of a lordship. In fact, it's easier to get a title than get rid of one.

No lord has tried to renounce his peerage since 1678 when the House of Lords effectively ruled that a peerage could not be renounced. Randolph Churchill has written a letter to "The Times" of London suggesting one way to avoid the House of Lords. Commit treason. That would cost him his title all right. Also his head and his estates. Seems drastic.

And while Viscount Stansgate fights for Misterhood, the town of Middlesborough, also in England, has taken socialism to new heights or, as the Colonel Blimps would have it, depths. Among its other services, the strongly Labor Middlesborough town council has decided to add a catering service.

You can have a dinner party in your own home catered by the Town Council at 9s, 6d a head, which is not at all bad. (For that you get cream of tomato soup, roast chicken, York ham, peach melba, coffee, cheese, and biscuits). The Town Council will throw in maid service at a shilling a head (roughly twelve cents). That means the maid would service a dinner party of eight for ninety-six cents. While Viscount Stansgate lives like a commoner, all the commoners, in Middlesborough at least, will be living like lords.

"Either . . . a splendid example of municipal enterprise or a ludicrous extension of public service," declares "The Times" editorially, making no bones about the fact that it leans toward the second view. I have another thought. A really bad meal could become a campaign issue, a succession of them might throw Labor right out of Middlesborough. Tough enough being responsible for the schools, the water supply, and law and order—without adding the quality of municipal cookery to the other malfeasances a town councillor can be denounced for.

And while these unlikely happenings are occurring in England, across the Channel, France is trying to cope with an ancient problem, prostitution. Prostitution is hardly an exclusively French problem, but it is—uh—committed in France in a peculiarly French way and that's going to change.

The French police are going to be given broader powers designed to crack down on bars and hotels catering to prostitutes. In effect the prostitute is to be driven off the street as she was in England. No one expects prostitution to disappear. French realists insist that the girls of the boulevards, long a familiar sight to tourists, will be replaced by the call girl, which is strictly an American institution.

Already the French have acquired our quick lunch counter. The Champs Elysees has sprouted an American drugstore. Now the French are getting our call girl. It's small wonder that the Americanization of Europe is decried so energetically. Not that the call girl was unknown in Paris. There were some but they were rare. The French preferred the streets where they could look over the girls, flirt a bit, and above all, shop around. But no more.

Malheur!

And from Russia comes word that there are still many, many privately owned farms in Russia. Forty years after the Russian revolution, private farming still produces 82 per cent of Soviet eggs, 70 per cent of its potatoes, and almost half its meat and milk production.

Those Agonizing Self-Appraisals

Those puzzled by the recent flurry of apologies for America's success and vigor as a nation will probably notice that the pendulum now seems headed back. In evidence may be offered the comments of Gen. Leslie Groves, Malcolm Muggeridge and Eric Larrabee.

Speaking with the authority of a man who directed the atomic Manhattan Project, General Groves says one of our great dangers today is a national feeling that there is something wicked in the success of the United States.

Mr. Muggeridge, who offers some acute observations in the guise of humor, finds it absurd that the United States should poll the world on whether we're liked or not. "The rich and powerful are always disliked," Mr. Muggeridge says. "The fact is the American way of life you have created has become what practically everyone in the world wants—even though I think they are somewhat misguided."

Mr. Larrabee, managing editor of American Heritage, takes up the subject of American success in his book, "The Self Conscious Society." Our generation, he says, has acquired an awareness of itself, one of the inevitable by-products of which is the sense of one's feebleness and futility. In the old days this was generally referred to as humility and considered a saving grace.

Somewhere between the fading fad of belittling our national accomplishments to make the world like us better, and boastful pride in things American there must be a new rallying point. For in its success, the growing America exhibited a remarkable measure of charity and idealism toward the world.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Gold Rush

Let us look at this gold problem realistically and analyze the facts no matter how unpleasant:

1. We need, first of all, to analyze what the various countries owe to us and on what terms. These agreements are not always public nor do the available data explain quite what the amounts are, when they are due, in what form they are to be paid.

If we can get back what is owing to us in gold, we shall undoubtedly find a large addition to our gold stocks.

2. What is our government doing about "hot money"? Several years ago, I raised the question of "hot money" and a Senate committee began to make an investigation. But it was soon called off. The "hot money" runs into billions.

What is "hot money"?

There are several kinds, the most usual being money deposited abroad for purposes of tax evasion and tax avoidance. Considerable sums, running into billions of dollars, are on deposit in Switzerland, Nassau, Venezuela, Panama, and Hongkong. Furthermore, a study needs to be made of the shift around of dollars between the United States and Canada involving such commodities as newsprint, craft paper, whisky and other liquors.

The hidden money is not limited to the illegally possessed funds of racketeers but involves many of the most respectable men in business and banking. The probability is that if the United States were able to call in funds hidden away or if our currency, which is now green, were printed red or purple and 60 days were allowed for the change-over from one colored currency to another, those who have evaded taxes by hiding their money abroad, would be sore put to it to become honest men. For whoever possessed the green currency, after a certain date, would find it convertible only by the Federal Reserve Bank which would demand a full explanation as to the source of the funds and why no taxes were paid on them. This would bring the government an enormous return, all from abroad.

"Hot money" classically is money from gambling, from bootlegging, from taking cash under the table in commercial transactions, etc., etc. Whoever owns "hot money" faces the problem of legitimatizing it. One may have millions stuck away in a Swiss bank but there comes a time when it must be used in legitimate transactions to be useful. This is no easy matter. If one holds such "hot money" in the United States, unless it be of a very small amount, it becomes a menace. He cannot get rid of it; he cannot use it; it might be stolen or burned or lost. Therefore, the smart owner of such money finds a way to get it out of the country.

Switzerland offers an excellent haven for such crookedness. A Swiss bank will hold a nameless account to which is given a number and nobody in the bank but its most confidential officers will know whose account it is. The bank will then undertake to "manage" the money for a fee. Such management is not in the owner's name but is in the name of a Swiss bank or a Swiss lawyer. Thus the money, stolen though it may be, is legitimatized. It owns American securities or American business houses or American land, or for that matter, similar properties in other countries. The beneficial owners are never disclosed, Swiss laws protecting the anonymity of the owners of this money.

Thus far, the government of the United States has never been able to break through this secrecy. It cannot discover the names of the Americans who are robbing the government of the United States.

Switzerland's non-cooperativeness in this is not unique. None of the tax haven countries cooperate with the United States. Much can be done. For instance, the withdrawal of green money say in 60 days and the rejection of such money without adequate explanation as to its original source and evidence of the payment of income tax. The Swiss banks would be clogged with unusable American dollars.

Of course, the exchange value of the green dollar would temporarily fall. The only ones to suffer would be the thieves who eluded their due responsibility as citizens by hiding their money abroad. An honest man would lose nothing because he could convert from green dollars to red or purple dollars without the slightest difficulty.

The Report On Future Goals For The U. S.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — An important report has just been issued by President Eisenhower's Commission on National Goals. It is about 20,000 words long. It contains some penetrating observations. But who will read the full text of it? It covers two newspaper pages. How many newspapers could possibly give space in a single day to such a big output of words without sacrificing other news? Yet the commission says:

"In far too many communities newspapers are inadequate in their coverage of significant public affairs. The problem of interesting and informing mass audiences, which most media must serve, is a constant challenge."

If this same commission had given a little thought to how its own report might have gotten wider attention, and if other government agencies would do likewise, there would be a greater spread of such information.

There is, for instance, no reason why this same report could not have been divided into separate sections, with each one released on a different day through a whole week. Thus, the section on foreign trade could have been dealt with separately. So also the section on national defense is a problem by itself. Similarly, recommendations on foreign policy might well have been the subject of a single release. Education is too important a topic to be merged with several others in one report.

It is too bad that a dissenting opinion on one or two points is buried at the end of the long report instead of being printed immediately after the section that deals with this topic. An example is what the commission says on racial discrimination in employment:

"One role of government is to stimulate changes of attitude. Additional municipal, state, and federal legislation is essential. The federal government should enforce the principle that federal funds shall not be disbursed to employers who discriminate on the basis of race. Similar policies should progressively be applied to federal grants for universities, hospitals, and airports and to federal housing programs."

This is a sweeping recommendation, and a sharp dissent was voiced by a business member. For it's a short step from such a proposal to a law forbidding tax deductions to any business that doesn't hire the employes that the federal government may wish to select for that business, irrespective of efficiency. But this appears to be contradicted by recommendations for bigger and bigger outlays of federal money for sociological purposes. Almost nowhere, except in the dissenting portions of the report, is any concern exhibited over the high rates of taxation faced by both business and individuals. No suggestions are made on how to produce more tax money, though there are many thousands of words about how to increase national output and augment our national growth.

Some generalities and abstractions are to be found in this report — as in many others and in public speeches by prominent persons in both political parties—in handling delicately the subject of relations between management and labor. The idea seems to be that these two economic groups, when properly exhorted, will cooperate in a utopian manner. There is not a single sentence about the damage being done to the whole economic structure — both in domestic and foreign trade — by the political ambitions of labor-union leaders who capitalize on greed and selfishness and let the public interest suffer. Much is often said about the need for higher wages, but little is said about the need for higher productivity and the elimination of waste.

Even an analysis of the commission's report cannot be done in a single dispatch, especially as to those broad and significant recommendations about nuclear weapons and the whole Communist operation in the "cold war." This in many ways affects our "national goals" more than anything else in the realm of national planning.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CABINET CHOICES — There is more than meets the eye in constant speculation about the make-up of President-elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet.

Signs point to an effort on the part of the GOP bloc in the Senate to examine minutely, and probably at great length, Kennedy's selections for Secretary of State, Secretary of Defense, Secretary of Labor, and possibly Secretary of the Treasury.

It will be recalled that Senate Democrats gave Charles E. Wilson a tough time when he was being considered as President Eisenhower's first Secretary of Defense.

Republicans believe that the Democratic effort was not so much to tarnish Wilson as to create the impression that Eisenhower's Cabinet was representative of "big business" rather than of all the people.

Republicans resented that, and some are determined to use Senate nomination hearings to develop their idea that Kennedy's selections are ultra-liberal and beholden to labor exclusively.

This is particularly true in the Labor post, where UAW President Walter Reuther will have an influential say in who is named.

Strange Things

By John Crosby

There are a good many omens and portents around the world that life as we know it is changing, not necessarily for the better. In England, Anthony Neil Wedgwood Benn is trying very hard and not very successfully to avoid becoming a viscount, an unpleasantness that descended on him when his father died. Mr. Benn wants to remain plain Mister rather than Viscount Stansgate, which the law quite plainly says he is.

The mind reels. All our lives the dream of becoming a lord, or, if you're a girl, marrying one, has been standard fantasy for just about everyone. If people start turning down titles, how will we manage? Have to rewrite Gilbert and Sullivan. It's not at all easy to divest yourself of a lordship. In fact, it's easier to get a title than get rid of one.

No lord has tried to renounce his peerage since 1678 when the House of Lords effectively ruled that a peerage could not be renounced. Randolph Churchill has written a letter to "The Times" of London suggesting one way to avoid the House of Lords. Commit treason. That would cost him his title all right. Also his head and his estates. Seems drastic.

And while Viscount Stansgate fights for Misterhood, the town of Middlesborough, also in England, has taken socialism to new heights or, as the Colonel Blimps would have it, depths. Among its other services, the strongly Labor Middlesborough town council has decided to add a catering service.

You can have a dinner party in your own home catered by the Town Council at 9s, 6d a head, which is not at all bad. (For that you get cream of tomato soup, roast chicken, York ham, peach melba, coffee, cheese, and biscuits). The Town Council will throw in maid service at a shilling a head (roughly twelve cents). That means the maid would service a dinner party of eight for ninety-six cents. While Viscount Stansgate lives like a commoner, all the commoners, in Middlesborough at least, will be living like lords.

"Either . . . a splendid example of municipal enterprise or a ludicrous extension of public service," declares "The Times" editorially, making no bones about the fact that it leans toward the second view. I have another thought. A really bad meal could become a campaign issue, a succession of them might throw Labor right out of Middlesborough. Tough enough being responsible for the schools, the water supply, and law and order—without adding the quality of municipal cookery to the other malfeasances a town councillor can be denounced for.

And while these unlikely happenings are occurring in England, across the Channel, France is trying to cope with an ancient problem, prostitution. Prostitution is hardly an exclusively French problem, but it is—uh—committed in France in a peculiarly French way and that's going to change.

The French police are going to be given broader powers designed to crack down on bars and hotels catering to prostitutes. In effect the prostitute is to be driven off the street as she was in England. No one expects prostitution to disappear. French realists insist that the girls of the boulevards, long a familiar sight to tourists, will be replaced by the call girl, which is strictly an American institution.

Already the French have acquired our quick lunch counter. The Champs Elysees has sprouted an American drugstore. Now the French are getting our call girl. It's small wonder that the Americanization of Europe is decried so energetically. Not that the call girl was unknown in Paris. There were some but they were rare. The French preferred the streets where they could look over the girls, flirt a bit, and above all, shop around. But no more.

Malheur!

And from Russia comes word that there are still many, many privately owned farms in Russia. Forty years after the Russian revolution, private farming still produces 82 per cent of Soviet eggs, 70 per cent of its potatoes, and almost half its meat and milk production.

Rampaging capitalism in Russia, reluctant lords in England, and virtue in France! What's the world coming to?

Could Better Auto Design Cut Traffic Toll?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The death toll on the highway has not changed in more than a decade and it is time for a different approach. The suggestion has been made on many occasions that the cause be found and eliminated by the same methods used in eradicating epidemics of typhoid, malaria, and other infections.

For some time we have blamed these accidents on drunken, crazy, or impatient drivers. Slogans have been devised to encourage safe driving and the law has cracked down on speeders and reckless drivers.

But Irwin D. J. Bross, Ph.D., of Buffalo, points out that blaming sinners for traffic mishaps today is similar to blaming plague and other epidemics of centuries ago on the wrongdoings of the victims. The authorities arrested sinners and burned heretics to stop the epidemics but, as with accident, it did not work because the real cause was not known. Plague was eliminated when the causative germ was found and when it became known that fleas on infected rats transmitted the infection to man.

Dr. Bross believes we can cut the highway toll in half within the next 10 years by making our cars safe enough to withstand collisions so as to minimize injury to passengers. The plan begins with an extensive fact finding program similar to that of the Cornell Automotive Crash Injury Research program.

The group goes into the minutest details of every auto accident to determine why some victims in identical accidents are mangled or killed whereas others survive. For example, more people live if they are not thrown out of a car after the door springs open. Would a lock with an extra quarter of an inch of steel prevent the door from opening?

Seat belts are the alternative but few will wear them. Statistics to date show that a stronger door lock might have saved one-fifth of the toll. The same might be said of stronger tops and other improvements in car design, with safety in mind.

ANIMAL DANDER

F. G. writes: My 10 year old son is allergic to animal dander; so we have no pets. Several children in the neighborhood to which we just moved have dogs. Is it safe for my boys to play with them or will his nose and eyes start running?

REPLY

Yes, but the reaction may be delayed if your boy is not overly sensitive and contact is minimized.

LOOKSEE

A. W. writes: What are the different things a doctor sees (besides jaundice) when he examines the eyes?

REPLY

Their luster (or lackluster), size, reaction of the pupils, eye movements, and condition of the lids. The physician also may use an ophthalmoscope to examine the optic nerve and the blood vessels in the retina.

HEART VALVE DISORDER

R. B. writes: Could mitral stenosis develop from a short bout of rheumatic fever in which the joint was not affected?

REPLY

Yes. A typical forms of rheumatic fever occur. In some instances, the heart is affected without joint involvement.

SLEEPING BLINKERS

E. W. writes: Is it harmful to the eyes to sleep blindfolded every night?

REPLY

No. Our Creator gave us upper and lower lids to make this possible. Blinders often are used by persons who cannot sleep when the room is light.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

The high price of a good cook in New York produced a brand-new crisis in the home of a prominent merchant. The newly acquired queen of the kitchen made no move whatever to prepare dinner her first night on the job.

"Vera!" called the lady of the house, "why aren't you preparing dinner? We're starving!"

"At the salary you're paying me," replied the new cook loftily, "I don't have to cook in a hot kitchen. I'm taking you all out for dinner at the Colony."

The Black Hole of Calcutta was a prison chamber in Fort William, a British fort on the site of modern Calcutta. The governor of Bengal's forces took the fort in 1756 and the 146 defenders were imprisoned in a room measuring 18 by 14 feet and having two small windows. By the end of the first night, all but 23 had died of suffocation.

W.Va. Colleges Launch Plan To Boost Broad Interest In Higher Education

KEYSER—If the presidents of West Virginia's 19 colleges and the University have their way, the people of this state are going to become more "higher education minded" in the days ahead.

Meeting in Charleston last week, the West Virginia Association of College and University presidents, together with college public relations personnel, representatives of the press, radio and television; representatives of the Board of Governors of the university and the State Board of Education, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, and state officials, discussed ways and means of bringing about a climate favorable to higher education in West Virginia.

As Dr. K. Duane Hurley, Salem College president, pointed out, West Virginia has the smallest percentage of college age youth in the country entering college. He noted, also, that unemployment is serious and great numbers of talented young people are migrating to other states in search of work.

Success with the cooperative program proposed could be far reaching in altering these conditions and trends, he added, and the plans and procedures would be beneficial not only for higher education but for education in general.

Attending the meetings from this area were Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College; Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater director of public relations for the college; and William W. Robinson, manager of Station WKYR. James H. Swadley Jr., of the Board of Governors was present for a separate meeting with the board.

Speaking at a dinner meeting during the session, President Elvis J. Stahr, of West Virginia University said, "this meeting will possibly be a landmark in West Virginia history and perhaps on a national basis."

He was referring to the fact that in a previous sessions the group of college presidents made a strong joint declaration toward the goal of not only lifting the degree of percentage of numbers from the state acquiring a college education, but of improving the overall offerings in the several colleges of this state.

Such a cooperative effort on a statewide scale is an innovation nationally, and is attracting the attention of the council for Financial Aid to Education, Inc., which indicated a few months ago that it might use W. Va. as a pilot state to show what can be done through such a unified effort as the college presidents plan.

As President Stahr expressed it, "what can we (the colleges) do collectively for each other? We shall present a united front before the peoples of West Virginia, we shall use our difference to compliment each other . for "when the tide rises, all the vessels in the water rise together." . . . "

It is going to be a long and an expensive project, but the immediate plans of the group are centered in the next two years.

First, the group expects to hire a special director for a two-year period. This individual will be charged with the duty of undertaking intensive research to determine the potential for higher education in West Virginia and the needs to take care of the potential. He will then direct the channeling of such information broadly throughout the length and breadth of the state. The project is estimated to cost some $45,000 a year for the two-year period.

Representatives of the Claude Worthington Bendum Foundation present at the meeting announced a grant from the foundation of $30,000 a year. The remainder of the money is to come from the state Board of Education and from the colleges themselves.

The Association of College and University presidents is pointing to January 1961 for the start of the program. The group also voted on a projected Higher Education Week to be celebrated the week of April 16.

The foolproof wishbone you can buy for just 63¢ a day

Inside every holiday turkey is the opportunity to make a wish. But if it's for a new home, or college for the kids, or a nest egg for the future, you need a different kind of wishbone: a sound plan for saving.

U. S. Savings Bonds provide such a plan. As little as 63¢ a day buys a $25 bond a month (cost $18.75). In 40 months you'll own Bonds worth $1,000 at maturity—a mighty good start toward making your wishes come true.

U.S. Savings Bond dollars help your government pay for the Peace—another wish you can do something about. Why not get started to-day?

Some advantages you might think about

You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan. Tell your company how much to set aside from your pay for Bonds. This way you won't forget to save and your savings will add up automatically.

You now get 3¾% interest, to maturity. This new rate, which went into effect June 1, 1959, makes your Bond money grow faster. Series E Bonds now mature 14 months earlier than before—in just 7 years, 9 months. Bonds bought before June 1, 1959 earn more, too—an extra ½% from that date to maturity.

You can get your money, with interest, any time you want it. Bonds are a ready reserve that you can cash any time at any bank. But it pays to keep them.

Your money is guaranteed by the U.S. Government. Bonds are an absolutely riskless investment. The Government promises you that the cash value of your Bond will not drop—it can only grow.

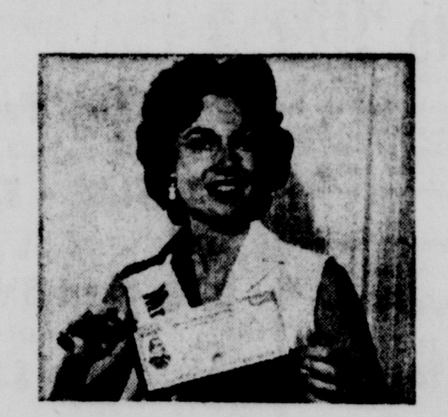

Your money can't be lost or stolen. The Treasury will replace your Bonds, free, if anything happens to them.

You save more than money. You help save the peace with every Bond you buy. Peace costs money—for science, education, military strength. And the money you save helps keep our nation's economy strong.

Here's how you can reach your Savings goal with U.S. Savings Bonds in just 7 years, 9 months.

If you want about	$2,500	$5,000	$10,000
each week SAVE	$5.45	$10.85	$21.70

Navy's Hewitt Best Lineman

Linebacker Clears Way For Joe Bellino

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Midshipman John Hewitt sings in the Naval Academy choir and dabbles with paints occasionally, but his mild manner ends on the football field.

Hewitt, 5 feet 11, 187-pound anchor in the Middie forward wall, Wednesday was named AP lineman of the week for his play in Navy's 17-12 victory over Army. The Middies accepted an Orange Bowl invitation to meet Missouri Jan. 2 immediately after the game.

The junior from Belle Vernon, Pa., has been described by Coach Wayne Hardin as the man "who springs (Joe) Bellino loose for most of his runs." Bellino is Navy's Heisman Trophy winner.

"It's really great blocking for Joe," Hewitt said Wednesday, "because when you complete a good block, you have the satisfaction that he'll get that extra 10 or 15 yards."

Hewitt has given Bellino the edge for that extra yardage more than once this season. In the Virginia game, he cleared the key man on Bellino's 90-yard touchdown romp. Hewitt also opened the way for teammate Joe in two long runs against Notre Dame.

On defense he has been a tiger all season from his inside linebacking spot.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Research of World Series games since 1903 has shown that Pirate second baseman Bill Mazeroski's lead off home run in the bottom of the ninth inning in the seventh and final game with the Yankees marked the first time that a four-bagger ended the fall classic.

In 1933, the late Mel Ott of the New York Giants hit a 10th inning homer against Washington to win the fifth game, 4-3, and the series, four games to one.

In 1942, Whitey Kurowski of the St. Louis Cardinals hit a two-run ninth inning homer to beat the Yankees, 4-2, and give the Red Birds the series, four games to one.

Minor Leagues Prepare For Own Affairs

33 Amendments To Be Considered

By JACK HAND

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues turn to their own affairs to vote on such matters as a college rule and the draft of first year players.

While the major league presidents and Commissioner Ford Frick wrestled with the major's expansion headaches at a top level conference in New York, the minors thumbed through 33 amendments to be considered Thursday.

It appeared likely that professional baseball and the colleges finally would get together on some protection against raiding the college campus for athletes. It also seemed probable that the rule requiring all first-year players to be subject to the draft would be extended for one more year. The usual attempts to curb big league baseball TV into minor league territory might passt he minors but were sure to be rejected by the majors next week.

George Trautman, president of the National Associaton (minors) was confident a college rule would be passed. For many years the colleges and pro operators have been feuding about the signing of boys still eligible for college baseball or football.

Under the amendment, no college baseball player, under 21, could be signed or given a tryout during the school year. However, he could be signed during the summer vacation period. A major-minor committee also would survey the summer amateur baseball league for college players in cooperation with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The so-called "first year player" rule has been in effect only two years. All players entering pro baseball are eligible for the draft at the close of their first year, unless they have been moved up to a big league roster. Most of the big $100,000 bonus boys, of course, are protected by being moved up to the big league club. Those left in the minors can be drafted for $12,000. This year a total of 39 first-year men clog big league rosters.

Tom Richardson To Head INT

Eastern Loop Boss Signs $15,000 Pact

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Tommy Richardson, who served as president of the Eastern League for the past 26 years, Wednesday succeded Frank Shaughnessy as president of the International League.

Richardson, 65, was signed for a one-year term at a salary of $15,000.

"I fel fortunate to follow in the footsteps of a man like Mr. Shaughnessy," said Richardson. "He has helped make the International League one of the finest in the country and I shall do everything possible to keep it that way."

Shaughnessy, 77, resigned last Tuesday and was voted an annual pension of $10,000 by the league directors.

Richardson lives in Williamsport, Pa., but said he would move his home to one of the eight cities in the International League

"Naturally, I am leaving the Eastern League with misgivings because I had many pleasant associations in it during the last 26 years," Richardson said. "This was an opportunity to move up the ladder, however, and I am delighted at the chance."

LA Offers Package Deal For Colavito Or Lemon

REDS COACH — Jim Turner, former New York Yankees pitching coach, has been hired in a similar capacity by the Cincinnati Reds. In 1960 he was field manager and general manager of the Nashville club in the Southern Association. (AP Photofax).

Dodgers Seeking Right-Hand Slugger

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, with talent to spare for the right - handed power - hitter they missed last season, Wednesday wrapped up an attractive package in a bid for Rocky Colavito of the Detroit Tigers or Jim Lemon of the Minnesota Twins.

In a pitch for a hitter who could take advantage of the short left field screen at their Coliseum, the Dodgers offered third baseman Jim Gilliam, outfielder Don Demeter and either pitcher Danny McDevitt or Jim Golden, who had a 20-9 record at St. Paul last season.

General manager Buzzy Bavasi made a smaller package offer last year for Roy Sievers of the Washington Senators, but could not swing a deal at the winter meetings. He feels the lack of such a hitter seriously hurt the Dodgers' pennant chances and he is willing to increase the offer this year. He agreed that he had a better chance of getting Lemon than Colavito.

It is known that manager Cookie Lavagetto of the Washington-transferred Minnesota club would like to shift Harmon Killebrew to the outfield. With two fleet outfielders like Demeter and Bob Allison, Lavagetto could try his outfield experiment with Killebrew and play Gilliam at third base.

This was one of the numerous trade reports that made the rounds of the winter meetings amid grumblings from baseball men that the freezing of the American League rosters dimmed any chance a major deal would be made before the meetings shift to St. Louis next week.

Aside from the Dodgers' latest trade bid, the most persistent centered on the Milwaukee Braves' search for a second baseman and-or a shortstop.

General manager Johnny McHale and manager Charley Dressen have sounded out other clubs for Johnny Temple of the Indians, Frank Bolling of the Tigers, Roy McMillan of the Reds, Daryl Spencer of the Cardinals and Jerry Lumpe of the Athletics. For Bolling, the Braves offered the Tigers three players from a group of six made up of pitchers Juan Pizarro, Joey Jay and Carl Willey, outfielder Wes Covington, infielder Mel Roach, and shortstop Johnny Logan.

Vice-president Chub Feeney of the San Francisco Giants said there was little hope of dealing pitcher Johnny Antonelli to the New York Yankees. General manager Roy Hamey of the Yankees said he had no desire to give up either of his catchers, Elston Howard or John Blanchard.

U. S. Doubles Teams Beaten

Italians, Aussies Win In Victorian

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —David Freed, captain of the Unied States Davis Cup team, was left with a king-size problem Wednesday when both of his doubles teams were eliminated in the semifinals of the Victorian tennis championships.

Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, Italy's seasoned Davis Cup stars, rallied to defeat Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, Mo., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 5-7, 11-9, 15-13, 6-2, in a 2½-hour match.

Then the top-seeded Australian team of Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson whipped Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Freed admitted he was disappointed over the twin setbacks and indicated he will need more time before deciding which doubles team he will use against Italy in the inter-zone matches at Perth next week. The winner of this series will face Australia in the challenge round.

The men's doubles final will be played Saturday instead of Friday. Although no reason was given for the change, tournament officials obviously are anxious to take advantage of the increased interest in the Italians and feel they will attract a larger crowd on Saturday.

In the women's singles semifinals, Mrs. Mary Reitano of New South Wales turned back Margaret Smith, the Australian champion, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, and Leslie Turner of New South Wales defeated Mrs. Mary Hawton, 6-2, 6-0. The final will be held Saturday.

Baseball Brass To Meet Again

Drafting Amendment For 1961 Expansion

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's top brass met for more than five hours Wednesday in the office of Commissioner Ford Frick in an attempt to draft an amendment that would clear the way for a 10-team American League in 1961.

When the meeting was adjourned, Frick's office said only that there would be another meeting Thursday.

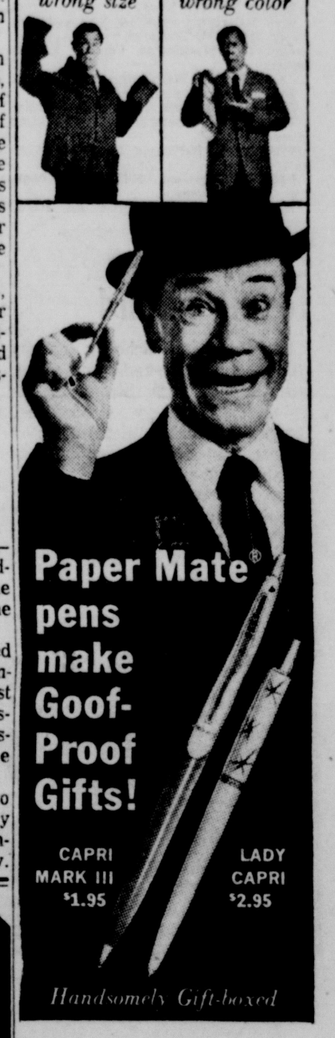

In the session with the commissioner were American League President Joe Cronin, National League President Warren Giles, and attorneys representing all three offices.

"There will be no statement of progress," a spokesman for the commissioner said. "There will be another meeting tomorrow."

Before they went into session this morning, the three officials said they had agreed not to make any statement because both Giles and Cronin must report back to their leagues.

Any agreement reached on an amendment would not be disclosed until after it is presented for consideration at the major league meetings opening Monday in St. Louis, Frick said.

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—Maryland's basketball team opens its eleventh season under Head Coach H. A. "Bud" Millikan Thursday, Dec. 1 when the Terps meet Penn State's Nittany Lions at College Park.

The 8:15 match in the Terps Cole Field House will feature the first meeting between the two schools. It is also the opening game for Penn State.

The Nittany Lions are led by their Team Captain Mark DuMars, 5-10 back-court ace. DuMars led the Penn State team to a 11-11 record last year while scoring 468 points. He had a 16.8 average as a sophomore and last year his 21.3 was tops for the Lions. He is also the team's leading ball-handler and play-maker.

The Terps are going with their experienced players also with the exception of one position. Bob Wilson, 6-10 center and a senior, Bob McDonald, 6-7 senior, Paul Jelus, 6-2 junior, and Bruce Kelleher also a 6-2 junior are the lettermen starting. The fifth starter will come from a trio of sophomores with either Bob Eicher, 6-2, Bill Stasiulatis, 6-3 or Jerry Greenspan, 6-6 winning the job.

George Hodor, 5-10 sophomore and 5-9 Mike Nofsinger a junior add back-court strength to the Terps. Rounding out the Maryland squad are sophomores, Joe Barton, 6-6, Connie Carpenter, 6-4 and Juniors, Ted Marshall, 6-7 and Dave Schroeder, 6-1.

Holy Cross Declines Gotham Bowl Bid

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Holy Cross authorities Wednesday declined to accept a re-issued invitation to play Oregon State in the Dec. 10 Gotham Bowl in New York.

The invitation was extended, then withdrawn, Tuesday, just minutes before the Crusader football team was to vote on acceptance.

Bob Ready, of the bowl's selection committee, came to Worcester Wednesday to re-offer the bowl berth, but met with no enthusiasm.

Ready conferred with Holy Cross officials. The invitation was declined.

Ready left immediately for New York. He said he would have no statement.

Swift, who was a coach with the Washington Senators last season, was named manager of Duluth-Superior in the Class C Northern League.

Lakeman was named manager of Durham of the Class B Carolina League. He managed Montgomery of the Alabama - Florida League last season.

Henley, an outfielder with Birmingham of the Southern League this year, will be making his managerial debut at Montgomery.

Pigskin Club Picks Evashevski

Minor Leagues Prepare For Own Affairs

33 Amendments To Be Considered

By JACK HAND

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues turn to their own affairs to vote on such matters as a college rule and the draft of first year players.

While the major league presidents and Commissioner Ford Frick wrestled with the major's expansion headaches at a top level conference in New York, the minors thumbed through 33 amendments to be considered Thursday.

It appeared likely that professional baseball and the colleges finally would get together on some protection against raiding the college campus for athletes. It also seemed probable that the rule requiring all first-year players to be subject to the draft would be extended for one more year. The usual attempts to curb big league baseball TV into minor league territory might passt he minors but were sure to be rejected by the majors next week.

George Trautman, president of the National Associaton (minors) was confident a college rule would be passed. For many years the colleges and pro operators have been feuding about the signing of boys still eligible for college baseball or football.

Under the amendment, no college baseball player, under 21, could be signed or given a tryout during the school year. However, he could be signed during the summer vacation period. A major-minor committee also would survey the summer amateur baseball league for college players in cooperation with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The so-called "first year player" rule has been in effect only two years. All players entering pro baseball are eligible for the draft at the close of their first year, unless they have been moved up to a big league roster. Most of the big $100,000 bonus boys, of course, are protected by being moved up to the big league club. Those left in the minors can be drafted for $12,000. This year a total of 39 first-year men clog big league rosters.

Tom Richardson To Head INT

Eastern Loop Boss Signs $15,000 Pact

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Tommy Richardson, who served as president of the Eastern League for the past 26 years, Wednesday succeded Frank Shaughnessy as president of the International League.

Richardson, 65, was signed for a one-year term at a salary of $15,000.

"I fel fortunate to follow in the footsteps of a man like Mr. Shaughnessy," said Richardson. "He has helped make the International League one of the finest in the country and I shall do everything possible to keep it that way."

Shaughnessy, 77, resigned last Tuesday and was voted an annual pension of $10,000 by the league directors.

Richardson lives in Williamsport, Pa., but said he would move his home to one of the eight cities in the International League

"Naturally, I am leaving the Eastern League with misgivings because I had many pleasant associations in it during the last 26 years," Richardson said. "This was an opportunity to move up the ladder, however, and I am delighted at the chance."

LA Offers Package Deal For Colavito Or Lemon

REDS COACH — Jim Turner, former New York Yankees pitching coach, has been hired in a similar capacity by the Cincinnati Reds. In 1960 he was field manager and general manager of the Nashville club in the Southern Association. (AP Photofax).

Dodgers Seeking Right-Hand Slugger

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, with talent to spare for the right - handed power - hitter they missed last season, Wednesday wrapped up an attractive package in a bid for Rocky Colavito of the Detroit Tigers or Jim Lemon of the Minnesota Twins.

In a pitch for a hitter who could take advantage of the short left field screen at their Coliseum, the Dodgers offered third baseman Jim Gilliam, outfielder Don Demeter and either pitcher Danny McDevitt or Jim Golden, who had a 20-9 record at St. Paul last season.

General manager Buzzy Bavasi made a smaller package offer last year for Roy Sievers of the Washington Senators, but could not swing a deal at the winter meetings. He feels the lack of such a hitter seriously hurt the Dodgers' pennant chances and he is willing to increase the offer this year. He agreed that he had a better chance of getting Lemon than Colavito.

It is known that manager Cookie Lavagetto of the Washington-transferred Minnesota club would like to shift Harmon Killebrew to the outfield. With two fleet outfielders like Demeter and Bob Allison, Lavagetto could try his outfield experiment with Killebrew and play Gilliam at third base.

This was one of the numerous trade reports that made the rounds of the winter meetings amid grumblings from baseball men that the freezing of the American League rosters dimmed any chance a major deal would be made before the meetings shift to St. Louis next week.

Aside from the Dodgers' latest trade bid, the most persistent centered on the Milwaukee Braves' search for a second baseman and-or a shortstop.

General manager Johnny McHale and manager Charley Dressen have sounded out other clubs for Johnny Temple of the Indians, Frank Bolling of the Tigers, Roy McMillan of the Reds, Daryl Spencer of the Cardinals and Jerry Lumpe of the Athletics. For Bolling, the Braves offered the Tigers three players from a group of six made up of pitchers Juan Pizarro, Joey Jay and Carl Willey, outfielder Wes Covington, infielder Mel Roach, and shortstop Johnny Logan.

Vice-president Chub Feeney of the San Francisco Giants said there was little hope of dealing pitcher Johnny Antonelli to the New York Yankees. General manager Roy Hamey of the Yankees said he had no desire to give up either of his catchers, Elston Howard or John Blanchard.

U. S. Doubles Teams Beaten

Italians, Aussies Win In Victorian

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —David Freed, captain of the Unied States Davis Cup team, was left with a king-size problem Wednesday when both of his doubles teams were eliminated in the semifinals of the Victorian tennis championships.

Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, Italy's seasoned Davis Cup stars, rallied to defeat Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, Mo., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 5-7, 11-9, 15-13, 6-2, in a 2½-hour match.

Then the top-seeded Australian team of Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson whipped Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Freed admitted he was disappointed over the twin setbacks and indicated he will need more time before deciding which doubles team he will use against Italy in the inter-zone matches at Perth next week. The winner of this series will face Australia in the challenge round.

The men's doubles final will be played Saturday instead of Friday. Although no reason was given for the change, tournament officials obviously are anxious to take advantage of the increased interest in the Italians and feel they will attract a larger crowd on Saturday.

In the women's singles semifinals, Mrs. Mary Reitano of New South Wales turned back Margaret Smith, the Australian champion, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, and Leslie Turner of New South Wales defeated Mrs. Mary Hawton, 6-2, 6-0. The final will be held Saturday.

Royal Native Named Champ By TRA Selectors

NEW YORK (AP) — When William B. Macdonald Jr., Florida baseball man and part owner of Tropical Park race track, paid out $252,500 for Royal Native last winter at Hialeah, he bought a champion.

The 4-year-old daughter of Royal Charger-Native Gal, by Sir Gallahad III, won nine of 18 starts this season. She was second six times, third once and earned $261,226.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — George Susce Sr. was signed Wednesday as a bullpen coach for the new Washington Senators of the American League.

Baseball Brass To Meet Again

Drafting Amendment For 1961 Expansion

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's top brass met for more than five hours Wednesday in the office of Commissioner Ford Frick in an attempt to draft an amendment that would clear the way for a 10-team American League in 1961.

When the meeting was adjourned, Frick's office said only that there would be another meeting Thursday.

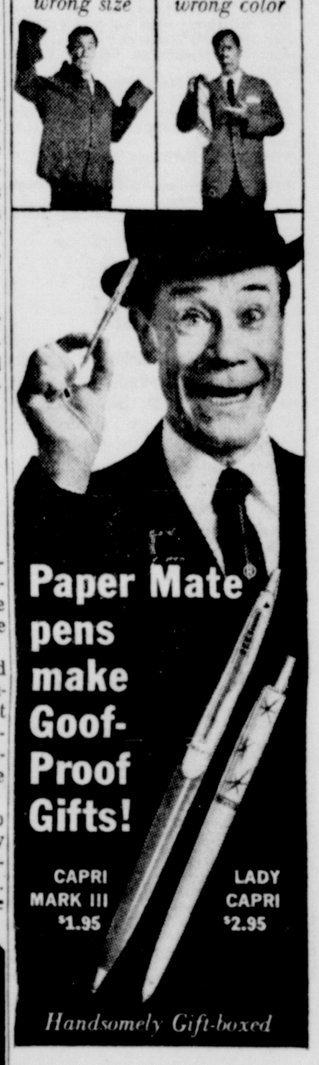

In the session with the commissioner were American League President Joe Cronin, National League President Warren Giles, and attorneys representing all three offices.

"There will be no statement of progress," a spokesman for the commissioner said. "There will be another meeting tomorrow."

Before they went into session this morning, the three officials said they had agreed not to make any statement because both Giles and Cronin must report back to their leagues.

Any agreement reached on an amendment would not be disclosed until after it is presented for consideration at the major league meetings opening Monday in St. Louis, Frick said.

Rebels Quit High School Cage Loop

The Rebels have dropped out of the High School Rec Basketball League, according to Gene Mason, city recreation director, leaving the circuit with 11 teams for the opening of the season on December 5.

Another team will be sought to replace the Rebels, Mason said, to round out the league with 12 teams. Squads desiring to join the loop are asked to contact the City Recreation Department at City Hall.

Market Suffers Sharpest Reverse In Five Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market was dumped Wednesday for its biggest loss in five weeks.

The decline was broad, encompassing every group with the exception of the farm equipments, but it came on considerably lower volume.

The list started out on the downtrack and continued sliding off until mid-afternoon. The steadying movement, however, collapsed in the final half hour and the selling intensified.

The Dow-Jones industrial average sagged 5.18 to 597.22, or below the leval that was supposed to bear up well under stress. Apparently the dip below 600 had less significance to traders than it did during the Sept. 19 plunge when that level caved in after three successful tests.

Volume fell sharply to 3,080,000 shares from 3,630,000 Tuesday

Brokers attributed the selling to mostly unfavorable business news including the sharp rise in unemployment during November and a drop in manufacturers sales and orders during October.

Three prominent issues once again touched new lows for the year. Bethlehem Steel lost ⅝ to 38, Chrysler dropped ¾ to 38¼ and Jersey Standard fell ⅝ to 38. General Motors, off ⅜, tied its low for the year.

Market Suffers Sharpest Reverse In Five Weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market was dumped Wednesday for its biggest loss in five weeks.

The decline was broad, encompassing every group with the exception of the farm equipments, but it came on considerably lower volume.

The list started out on the downtrack and continued sliding off until mid-afternoon. The steadying movement, however, collapsed in the final half hour and the selling intensified.

The Dow-Jones industrial average sagged 5.18 to 597.22, or below the leval that was supposed to bear up well under stress. Apparently the dip below 600 had less significance to traders than it did during the Sept. 19 plunge when that level caved in after three successful tests.

Volume fell sharply to 3,080,000 shares from 3,630,000 Tuesday

Brokers attributed the selling to mostly unfavorable business news including the sharp rise in unemployment during November and a drop in manufacturers sales and orders during October.

Three prominent issues once again touched new lows for the year. Bethlehem Steel lost ⅝ to 38, Chrysler dropped ¾ to 38¼ and Jersey Standard fell ⅝ to 38. General Motors, off ⅜, tied its low for the year.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all of our relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved father, Peter Staup, Lonaconing, Md. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and cards and those who donated the use of their automobiles.

THE FAMILY.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Sarah Sweitzer, who died one year ago, Dec. 1, 1959.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Her Children & Grandchildren.

In memory of our beloved husband and father, Nazzerine Femi, who died 2 years ago today Dec. 1, 1958.
Softly the stars are shining
Upon a precious grave.
Beneath lies one we dearly loved,
But whom we could not save.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile.
Little do they know the heartache
That our smiles hide all the while.
Sadly missed by his Wife, Children & Grandchildren.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all of our relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved father, Peter Staup, Lonaconing, Md. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and cards and those who donated the use of their automobiles.

THE FAMILY.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Sarah Sweitzer, who died one year ago, Dec. 1, 1959.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Her Children & Grandchildren.

In memory of our beloved husband and father, Nazzerine Femi, who died 2 years ago today Dec. 1, 1958.
Softly the stars are shining
Upon a precious grave.
Beneath lies one we dearly loved,
But whom we could not save.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile.
Little do they know the heartache
That our smiles hide all the while.
Sadly missed by his Wife, Children & Grandchildren.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

Opening lead: Queen of ♣

The tutoring of the bridge neophyte is always accompanied by constant reminders of the old bromides, such as second hand low, third hand high, cover an honor with an honor, etc.

That the practice is necessary cannot be denied since these general rules usually apply. But, unfortunately, the constant repetition so impinges the rule on the student's consciousness that he cannot discern when to make an exception.

Yesterday we presented practically this same hand with a problem for declarer. Today the North and South hands are intact, and the declarer's problem is the same. However, having changed the defensive setup only slightly, the defenders enter into the picture with a problem of their own.

Again West opens the queen of clubs and declarer wins the third round of the suit with the ace, and then leads a low spade toward dummy, finessing the eight spot. East wins the trick with the jack, returning a diamond. Declarer plays the ace and leads a second spade. When West's queen falls, the entire spade suit is established and declarer has the nine tricks he needs.

Second hand low is instinctive, of course, but when South led the first spade West would have done well to ask himself what he had to gain by playing the seven. If declarer holds the jack of spades, West's queen is finessable and must fall in any event on the next round. However, if East holds the jack, West, by putting up the queen of spades, can prevent South from taking an early finesse in the suit to maintain his line of communication.

Notice how the play of the queen of spades upsets the declarer's applecart. If he permits the queen to hold and then plays for the drop in spades he is held to two tricks in the suit. If he wins the trick and subsequently finesses West for the jack, he wins only one spade trick. If he permits the queen to hold and then finesses for the jack, declarer takes no spade tricks. In any case, South wins at most, two spade tricks, and must fall short of his goal.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Queen of ♣

The tutoring of the bridge neophyte is always accompanied by constant reminders of the old bromides, such as second hand low, third hand high, cover an honor with an honor, etc.

That the practice is necessary cannot be denied since these general rules usually apply. But, unfortunately, the constant repetition so impinges the rule on the student's consciousness that he cannot discern when to make an exception.

Yesterday we presented practically this same hand with a problem for declarer. Today the North and South hands are intact, and the declarer's problem is the same. However, having changed the defensive setup only slightly, the defenders enter into the picture with a problem of their own.

Again West opens the queen of clubs and declarer wins the third round of the suit with the ace, and then leads a low spade toward dummy, finessing the eight spot. East wins the trick with the jack, returning a diamond. Declarer plays the ace and leads a second spade. When West's queen falls, the entire spade suit is established and declarer has the nine tricks he needs.

Second hand low is instinctive, of course, but when South led the first spade West would have done well to ask himself what he had to gain by playing the seven. If declarer holds the jack of spades, West's queen is finessable and must fall in any event on the next round. However, if East holds the jack, West, by putting up the queen of spades, can prevent South from taking an early finesse in the suit to maintain his line of communication.

Notice how the play of the queen of spades upsets the declarer's applecart. If he permits the queen to hold and then plays for the drop in spades he is held to two tricks in the suit. If he wins the trick and subsequently finesses West for the jack, he wins only one spade trick. If he permits the queen to hold and then finesses for the jack, declarer takes no spade tricks. In any case, South wins at most, two spade tricks, and must fall short of his goal.

Section Gets First Taste Of Cold And Snow

Garrett Reports About Three Inches

Cumberland and the surrounding area received its first real taste of winter yesterday as the mercury dipped well below freezing and several inches of snow fell in Garrett County and parts of Allegany County.

In Cumberland, the mercury never rose above the 31-degree mark yesterday and strong winds whipped snow flurries about all day and into the night.

Over three inches of snow fell yesterday in Garrett County and flurries were still reported in that section late last night. The temperature was 20 degrees at 10 p.m. in Oakland.

About two inches of snow was reported yesterday and last night in Frostburg, and the temperature there at 10 p.m. was 19 degrees.

Some Roads Slippery

State Police last night reported all roads in Allegany County were clear, but there was some slippery spots. In Garrett County, police recommended snow treads for persons traveling in that area.

The SRC reported 19 pieces of equipment and 38 men were in service yesterday afternoon and evening in Garrett County applying chemicals and abrasives to the roads. All men and equipment ceased operation at 5 p.m., a SRC spokesman at Oakland said last night. All roads were well cindered, they reported.

In Allegany County, several trucks were used yesterday to cover some highways with chemicals and cinders after the light snowfall created hazardous driving conditions.

Robert Golden, official weather observer in Constitution Park, said the low in the city yesterday was 24 degrees and the high for the day was 31 degrees. Mr. Golden said the mercury had been hovering around the 27-degree mark for most of yesterday evening and last night.

More Of Same Today

The area can expect more of the same weather conditions today.

The Weather Bureau calls for temperatures to remain cold for the rest of the week with an overnight low of about 20 degrees.

Nearby areas in West Virginia also reported several inches of snow yesterday.

Nearly three inches fell in the Keyser and Moorefield sections, but all roads were cindered yesterday and were reported clear last night.

Temperatures were expected to drop into the teens in some of the mountain sections of West Virginia during the night.

VA Says It Doesn't Make Endorsements

Door-to-door solicitors who imply they represent the Veterans Administration or have the endorsement of the VA are acting without permission or authority, according to Sam Weston, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration office here.

He said the announcement was made in response to inquiries from individuals and groups seeking verification of verbal statements made by agents soliciting subscriptions or funds or selling products in behalf of veterans.

"The VA does not endorse any product, project or commercial endeavor for the profit of individuals, organizations or corporations," Mr. Weston said.

He added that the VA neither endorses nor condemns door-to-door solicitations in behalf of veterans, but advises those who may suspect claims made in such endeavors to check with their Chamber of Commerce.

Resurfacing Work Scheduled Today

Resurfacing work on Cumberland Street, from the Market Street Bridge to Tilghman Street, is scheduled today and no parking will be allowed on either side of the street.

The announcement was made yesterday by Police Chief B. F. Gaffney.

He said crews expect to get to the B&O Bridge by 10 a. m. today and then proceed with the application of a leveling course on the rest of the street.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Associated Charities Toy Center Open House Slated

Friends of the Associated Charities are being invited to attend open house next week at its toy headquarters at 65-67 North Centre Street, opposite City Hall.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the CUF unit, said the toyroom will be open for the week beginning December 5 and that all persons interested in the Christmas activities of the agency are invited to come to see the 1960 toy collection.

Associated Charities crews began decorating the toy shop Tuesday and have placed a display of some of the most attractive toys in the windows.

Other toys will be placed in the toy center as they are received or repaired.

Toys Still Needed

Thousands of toys are on hand, but more will be needed if all of the children of ill and unemployed families of the area are to get the toys they asked Santa to bring.

Dozens of individuals and groups are busy collecting and repairing toys for the agency, and the work will continue through next week.

The list of those who aid the Associated Charities' toy project as a part of their Christmas activities includes local military units, scout troops, schools, clubs, sororities and hundreds of individuals.

The toys, some new and some used and repaired, will be distributed to parents during the week of December 12.

Letters are being sent by the Associated Charities, setting the time when parents who are unable to purchase toys for their children may come to the toy center.

All Toys Repaired

The usual custom is to provide a large and a number of small toys for each child. Every attempt is made to provide the kind of toy children have requested.

Many of the toys are worse for wear, but all have been cleaned, repaired and painted with cheerful colors.

Other toys are hand-made and of superlative quality, and hundreds of new toys are on hand.

The agency will begin packing and delivering Christmas baskets during the week of December 19.

All of the food and funds to purchase food for the baskets is donated by individuals and groups who ask the agency to distribute their Christmas offering to the needy of the Cumberland area.

Eagles Back Plan To Hire Those Over 40

Congress, State To Get Petitions

Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, passed a resolution Tuesday night supporting the state aerie in the nationwide campaign to provide job opportunities for persons in their middle years who are now denied work due to age ceilings in hiring.

The resolution adopted by the local fraternal group gives support to the Eagles state campaign to secure legislation in Maryland to prohibit discrimination because of age in hiring by plants and firms holding contracts for performance or material with the state.

The resolution stated that responsible surveys have established that workers in their middle years and older have many valuable assets as employes.

The measure also said that enactment of legislation to prohibit age discrimination in hiring would utilize a vast manpower pool needlessly wasted in this state.

Lynn E. Tharp, president of the local aerie, said over one million persons have signed a petition requesting a federal "Jobs After 40" law.

Mr. Tharp said these petitions will be presented to the Congress and additional petitions will be circulated for presentation to various state legislatures.

The program has been endorsed and has received support from both civic and labor leaders and organizations throughout the country, according to Mr. Tharp.

Church To Hold Stewardship Banquet

Trinity Lutheran Church on North Centre Street will hold a stewardship banquet tomorrow at 6 p. m. for all workers who will take part in the every-member canvass.

Rev. H. W. Nommensen, pastor, said William George is general chairman of the drive, and Henry Schaidt and Charles Wilt will serve as co-chairmen.

Beacon Light Dangerous, Heller Warns

Charles F. Heller, maintenance superintendent of the Cumberland Municipal Airport, last night warned of the dangers youths face in climbing the beacon tower at the port.

He said two youths who climbed the 75-foot-high tower last Friday could have been electrocuted had they touched the wires which furnish power to the beacon.

Mr. Heller said the youths dug a hole beneath the high fence which surrounds the tower to gain entrance.

He said the boys tampered with the lenses of the white and green lights on the tower, but that no damage was done, since a member of the airport staff noticed that the lenses were swinging free.

Airport personnel, he said, always switch off the power before climbing the tower to replace burned-out bulbs.
